Crop Conditions Are Promising

Canadian Press

Ottawa, June 13.—Crop conditions are variable but satisfactory, says the first telegraphic crop report issued to-day by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The 1933 wheat crop is generally promising, particularly in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

Spring weather conditions in Alberta have not been so favorable. Considerable areas in the southwestern and central regions of that province, and extending into west-central Saskatchewan, are in need of rain, the report says.

JAPANESE BAR INDIAN COTTON

Osaka, Japan, June 13.—The Cotton Spinners' Federation to-day unanimously approved a boycott against Indian raw cotton.

This action was in retaliation against a recent 50 per cent increase in duties levied by India against non-British cotton cloths.

It follows by a few days a statement by a Foreign Office spokesman that the Japanese government was considering methods of effectively checking "the British Empire's aggressive tariff and general commercial policies against Japan."

Immigration Department's Proceedings Directed Toward Deportation Described as "Rash" and "Slipshod" by Mr. Justice Robson of Manitoba Appeal Court

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, June 13.—In a judgment condemning proceedings of the Immigration Department here last Friday as "bad," "slipshod" and "rash," Mr. Justice H. A. Robson of the Manitoba Court of Appeal to-day discharged Peter Verigin, Doukhobor leader, from custody of the department and awarded him costs of the case.

In order, as he said, not to conflict with a judgment of the Supreme Court of Canada subsequent to the decision of Mr. Justice Rumphrey Mellish of the Nova Scotia Supreme Court, declaring Verigin free from deportation, Mr. Justice Robson said he would declare the community leader free on the grounds that last Friday's proceedings were "not consonant with British justice."

At the same time, Mr. Justice Robson made it clear he considered Mr.

Political Paragraphs

Tolmie May Have Five Opponents in Saanich.
Conservative Dilemma in Gulf Islands.
Victoria's Present Members Will Split Up.
Alex McDonald, Liberal, Strongly Backed in Islands.

To secure re-election in Saanich Premier Tolmie will probably have to wage a contest against five candidates, a Liberal, two independents, a C. C. F. and a Socialist.

Norman W. Whittaker, who gave the Premier a close run in the 1928 contest, has been nominated again as Liberal candidate. He cut the Premier's majority to 543 in the last election, and his chances are considered excellent.

* * *

E. C. Mayers, K.C., is mentioned as an independent candidate in Saanich. Mr. Mayers, one of the outstanding lawyers of British Columbia, who has made his home at Ten-Mile Point, told friends before he left for England to appear in cases before the Privy Council, that if he returned in time he would probably run. He would not be the representative of any party. It is expected he will be back in time.

Reeve William Crouch of Saanich is expected to be another candidate in that constituency. Although he has not taken part in provincial or federal politics here he is generally regarded as having leanings towards the Conservative party.

W. J. Dunn announced yesterday that he had been approached to run as a C.C.F. candidate in Saanich, and his candidature would also be sponsored by the People's Movement. Mr. Dunn is a war veteran, who lost a leg at Vimy. He is a loganberry and tomato grower at Gordon Head.

The sixth candidate and fifth opponent of Premier Tolmie may be Robert J. McFarlane, also a Gordon Head fruit grower. He is now on a visit to the prairies. Mr. McFarlane is also a People's Party man, and it is reported if Mr. Dunn is endorsed, Mr. McFarlane may run as an independent.

There is considerable speculation as to what opposition will be offered to the four Victoria Liberal candidates, John Hart, J. B. Clearihue, Alderman W. H. Kinsman and Byron Johnson.

It is thought that Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe and H. D. Twigg will be on the card as Tolmie supporters. Although Mr. Hinchliffe's valedictory was spoken of at the last session, the Minister of

PRAIRIE MAN SLAIN BY THUG

Postmaster at Hafford, Sask., Shot in His Store and Purse Taken

Murder Added to Several Being Investigated by Plains Police

Canadian Press

Hafford, Sask., June 13.—To the growing number of murders under investigation by the police in this province another cold-blooded slaying was added yesterday when Peter Pommeruel, fifty-three-year-old postmaster and merchant of Redberry, was shot down in his general store here.

Slumped behind a counter with a .22 calibre rifle bullet wound in the head, Pommeruel was found dead at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon by persons visiting the store to buy stamps. No weapon was found, but an empty .22 cartridge shell was discovered on the floor in front of the counter. Footsteps leading across a nearby field to a clump of bushes indicated the direction in which the murderer had fled. One of two purses the postmaster habitually carried was missing.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police from Hafford and North Battleford divisional headquarters were on the scene to-day in an effort to run the slayer to earth.

Pommeruel, a widower, was last seen alive at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon by his son-in-law, William Haase, Redberry elevator agent. Mrs. Hasse is the only relative of the slain man of whom local authorities know.

DISCOVERED BY CUSTOMER

Post office customers were not surprised to find Pommeruel apparently absent when they entered his quiet village store for stamps. Nor did they grow uneasy as minutes passed and Pommeruel failed to show up. One man leaned against a counter. He happened to glance on the far side and there saw the body crumpled up on the floor. The alarm was raised.

Dr. Rose found a .22 calibre bullet had penetrated the skull. The point of entry, above and behind the left ear, indicated Pommeruel was caught unawares. The bullet left the head through the right temple.

One purse containing $50 was still on the body, but another the postmaster was known to have carried was missing. Whether post office funds had been touched could not be determined until the arrival of an inspector from Saskatoon.

First Shipment of Gordon Head Strawberries Is Received by Wholesalers

Selling at 25 Cents a Basket; Price of New Potatoes Going Down

The first local strawberry shipment to the wholesalers, comprising about twenty crates, arrived on wholesale row yesterday evening, and was retailing to-day at twenty-five cents a basket. The quality is described as very good, the varieties being British Sovereign and Magoons.

Picking will be general in Saanich to-morrow, with berries from that district available to consumers Thursday. The sun of the last few days, coming after the recent rains, is proving very beneficial.

The first eating cherries, plums and watermelons arrived from California this morning. Other fresh fruits now selling include cantaloupes, grapes, gooseberries and pears.

The supply of new potatoes is rapidly increasing and prices to-day were a cent a pound lower than yesterday, with further substantial declines expected by the end of the week. Most of the new potatoes are from the mainland. A shipment of British Columbia potatoes and tomatoes is now prairie-bound.

U.S. DIRIGIBLE MAKES FLIGHT

Associated Press

Chicago, June 13.—Illinois naval reserve station here received a radio message from the dirigible Macon this afternoon that it was over Kewaune, Wis., headed for Chicago, where it was expected to arrive at 7 p.m.

The station said the ship was having no difficulty navigating.

An earlier dispatch said:

Frankfort, Mich., June 13.—The United States Coast Guard station here reported at 1.50 p.m. to-day that the United States naval dirigible Macon, flying in this vicinity, reported by wireless that its rudder had been disabled and it was heading toward Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

At 2.10 p.m., E.S.T., coast guard officials reported the Macon had sent out another wireless message which they were unable to decipher. Members of the coast guard said the big dirigible had passed over there and disappeared to the north, in the face of a thirty-four-mile head wind.

The dirigible, they said, was near the Lake Michigan shore line when it was sighted.

Forty-hour Week Debate Postponed

Canadian Press and Associated Press

Geneva, June 13.—The International Labor Conference voted to-day to postpone the forty-hour week project. The question will be discussed again in 1934.

At yesterday evening's session, A. R. Goldie, Canadian representative, declared a work week of that length would not solve the Dominion's unemployment problem.

However, France, Spain, Italy, Belgium, Sweden and Portugal had favored it. Canada, Great Britain, Japan Germany and Norway urged postponement of the project.

TEST SEEN ON U.S. VETERAN ISSUE

Associated Press

Washington, June 13.—President Roosevelt threw down the gauntlet to Congress to-day on the war veterans' issue, sending word he would not yield from the compromise he had made with the House of Representatives on payments made to ex-soldiers.

After a conference between the President and Democratic leaders at the White House, the word was spread through the Senate the President would not give an inch and would veto the appropriation bill if Congress should go further than the compromise on which he had agreed.

SNOWFALL BRINGS ONTARIO RELIEF

North Bay, Ont., June 13.—A cold northwest wind, carrying with it light snow, swept over northern Ontario yesterday evening, to refresh the north country, which had experienced tropical temperatures during the last week. The mercury this morning stood at 30 degrees, later rising to 40, in contrast to the 86 and 92 marks it reached last week.

Iroquois Falls, Cochrane, Rouyn and Elk Lake all reported snow, driven by a strong wind from the northwest.

Thousands of Hunger Marchers Demand to See Secretary of State For Scotland

Throng Headed by Fife and Drum Band Camp Overnight in Princes' Street

By Thos. T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Edinburgh, June 13.—Headed by a fife and drum band, thousands of "hunger marchers" surrounded the Ministry of Labor offices here to-day and demanded to see Sir Godfrey Collins, Secretary of State for Scotland.

Sir Godfrey had already wired that duties in London prevented his coming to Edinburgh.

The throng, consisting of men and women, all of whom were guaranteed by their leaders to be genuinely unemployed, converged on the Scottish capital yesterday evening from many parts of the surrounding countryside.

"We want Collins," they shouted before the Ministry of Labor offices.

Princes' Street, one of the handsomest thoroughfares in Europe, was the camping ground of the marchers overnight. They breakfasted on the sidewalk under red banners planted along the edge of the gardens of Edinburgh Castle.

DEER PEST ON ONTARIO FARMS

Kitchener, Ont., June 13.—First it was grasshoppers. Now it is deer. Farmers north of here are sending vigorous complaints to the game authorities asking for an open day for deer shooting. The animals are invading farms in dozens, farmers report, and destroying entire wheat crops.

Inspector Joseph Carruthers, Fifteen Years on Calgary Force, Killed While Seeking Burglar at Residence in Answer to Call

R.C.M.P. Join in Search For Slayer

Calgary, June 13. — Shot through the body as he sought a burglar at a west end residence, Inspector Joseph Carruthers of the Calgary police force, died about 3.25 o'clock this morning.

A young man in dark clothes and with a dark cap was said to have fired the shot. City and Royal Canadian Mounted Police immediately started an intensive search, their efforts resulting in the questioning of three young men.

CALL RECEIVED

Shortly after three o'clock this morning a call came into police headquarters that a burglar was ransacking A. McGregor's west-end residence. Mr. McGregor said a burglar was trying to obtain money from his wife's purse. Inspector Carruthers and Detective James MacDonald answered the summons.

Hero of many a more dangerous police hunt, Inspector Carruthers met his death in search of a petty thief. In a dark lane, a running man was sighted by Detective MacDonald, who lost the night prowler in the darkness.

Later a shot was heard and MacDonald then heard Inspector Carruthers calling "Jimmie, Jimmie." The detective hurried to his side.

FIRST AID FUTILE

The officer was given aid by W. T. Esdale, druggist, awakened by the disturbance in the early hours, but Inspector Carruthers succumbed to the wound.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police joined city constables in the manhunt, which covered all of Calgary and roads leading from the city. Warning was sent to all points to be on the lookout for "a young man about five feet, eight inches in height, wearing dark clothes and a dark cap," the description of the man Detective MacDonald saw running down the lane and which, police said, fitted Bertram Stinson, 22, brought in for questioning about 6.15 a.m., with Arthur Pattison, 28, and Michael Dodds, 21.

Stinson was unarmed when arrested and quietly submitted to the police measures.

SERVED FIFTEEN YEARS

Fifteen years of faithful service had carried the popular Joe Carruthers to an inspectorship, a background of police work being a great aid in his promotion. His father and grandfather

Stabilization May Be First Success

Understanding on U.S. Dollar, British Pound and French Franc Looms as World Economic Conference Achievement

By Claude A. Jagger, Associated Press Staff Writer

London, June 13.—Discussions of currency stabilization plans by British, French, United States and Central Bank representatives continued to-day, with the Europeans described authoritatively as exerting "tremendous pressure" on the United States delegates to stabilize the dollar.

The pronounced decline in the dollar's relation to the pound sterling was viewed with consternation in Lombard Street and press comment was bitter to-day on that point.

The Financial News said that while "the cult of economic peace and cooperation was at its most orgiastic" at the World Economic Conference, "foreign exchanges were providing overwhelming evidence the British and United States Governments — and apparently their central banks also — are at cross purposes—even doublecross without purpose."

British quarters were described as being fearful a further decline in the dollar might force the franc and other continental European gold currencies off gold.

Devices Working Till Court Ruling Despite Police Move

Operators Put Machines Back in Their Stores After Brief Stop; Court Hearing Set For June 27

Canadian Press

Vancouver, June 13.—Operators of slug-yielding slot machines yesterday evening and to-day replaced them on locations from which they were removed Saturday evening when police started to enforce the by-law banning the devices.

The reason for the sudden return of the machines reported to be that operators doubt whether the courts will decide on any prosecutions under the by-law until the Supreme Court has given a decision on the move of operators to quash the ordinance. The case will be heard by Chief Justice Morrison on June 27.

Although making no statement on what action is proposed, Prosecutor Oscar Orr and Police Chief John Cameron to-day jointly declared no magistrate would attempt to pass on the validity of the slot machine by-law while the matter was under question before the Supreme Court.

STABILIZATION MAY BE FIRST SUCCESS

STABILIZATION PREDICTED

High financial authorities in close touch with the British delegation predicted the dollar, pound and French franc would be stabilized for the period of the conference.

This move, considered the first definite accomplishment of the conference, would permit the movement of the three monetary units within a wide range in order to conciliate opposing views, it was said.

This forecast followed negotiations between British, United States and French leaders at the British Treasury. It was understood they arrived at a tentative agreement.

The French delegation was said to be willing to place necessary sums in francs at the disposal of the U.S. Federal Reserve Bank in order to keep the Paris market within a predetermined range.

DALADIER'S PROGRAMME

London, June 13 — A three-point programme to pull the world out of its slump was proposed by Premier Edouard Daladier of France at to-day's session of the World Economic Conference.

He called for currency stabilization, economic accords and huge public works schemes. The French Premier and Viscount Ishii of Japan were the only two major speakers of the morning session who did not discuss the war debts.

"The maintenance of re-establishment of liberty of gold movements appears indispensable to us," said M. Daladier. "How are you going to re-establish the circulation of goods and conclude economic accords if the measure of values remains dependent on caprice or hazard? What would you say of the engineer or architect who used an elastic yardstick?"

The Premier said it was necessary to organize a controlled entente among producers in order that their activities might be adapted to the actual powers of consumption.

REDUCED HOURS

"We believe this work must be completed by a big effort toward organization of labor, notably by the adoption within international framework of a reduced working week, for example a week of forty hours."

M. Daladier said the third point in the French programme was a public works scheme.

"Experience has shown that great public works programmes mobilize idle capital and ease international activity," he told the conference. "The International Labor Office has drawn up a vast scheme which we consider worthy of the consideration of the governments."

He finished with a plea for international collaboration. "Dragged together toward the abyss," he said, "the peoples of the world will find relief only in common action to restore universal confidence by free and loyal collaboration."

PARK USED AS CABBAGE PATCH

Chinese Garden Encroaches On Mount Douglas Area, Council Is Told

Mount Douglas Park, the centre some time ago of a storm of criticism, and subject of a royal commission, may again be in the legal spotlight, it was intimated to the City Council yesterday afternoon.

The aldermanic board was informed by the Victoria-Saanich Parks and Beaches Committee that two cases of encroachment on the park property have been discovered. One of these is the cabbage patch of a Chinese, extending over 3.43 acres. The Chinese claims to be paying rent to a private party. The other is where private property is overlapped on the park area.

The city solicitor was instructed to notify the offending parties and see that the interests of the city, as trustees of the property are protected.

Political Paragraphs

Education himself has not announced his political retirement, and many political observers believe it depends on a nomination or not whether he makes another bid for election.

Mr. Twigg has been one of the main figures in launching the new Unionist Party headed by Premier Tolmie. It was this activity in fact which lost him his job as organizer of the Conservative Party in British Columbia. The executive of the B.C. Conservative Association decided Saturday that as the association had decided to take no part in provincial politics at this time, and Mr. Twigg was organizer for the new Unionist Party, they saw no reason why they should pay an organizer. They cancelled the position.

J. H. Beatty has announced his retirement from the political field. He has sat for Victoria for five years.

There are reports that Reginald Hayward, senior member for Victoria, will run on an Independent Conservative ticket. Another former mayor, Herbert Anscomb, and W. C. Moresby, K.C., are mentioned as possible nominees with him.

Joseph North has also stated he will be a candidate in Victoria. He will probably be hundred per cent independent. He will be on the card of no group or party, he says.

The C.C.F. will be in the field. Their representation depends to a great extent on whether the Trades and Labor Council joins forces. The council is divided on the issue, which will come to a vote this week. Rev. Robert Connell started the negotiations with the council, and may be a candidate himself.

Guy Sheppard, one of the pioneers of the People's Party move in Victoria, will be in the field.

Alderman Andrew McGavin is reported to be considering entering the race. He is not prepared to make any definite announcement as yet.

Premier Tolmie is now making plans for the first of several speaking tours he will undertake. On his first tour he will probably present his Conservative-Unionist idea to the agricultural districts. Later he will visit the cities. His itinerary is now being worked out.

Attorney-General Pooley is back on the job after a fishing holiday in the Cariboo. He had a long conference with Premier Tolmie yesterday. With the "Stevens for Premier" bubble burst, a convention turned down, manifesto issued, Mr. Twigg dropped as organizer and the government being pressed to announce the election date, there was plenty to talk about.

While Liberals in the Islands constituency have got solidly behind Alex. McDonald, popular rancher who received the unanimous nomination, Conservatives appear to be having their troubles. Capt. MacGregor Macintosh has been nominated by one section as an independent Conservative after announcing he could not come out as a straight Tolmie-Conservative. He was requested to subscribe to Premier Tolmie's ideals if he saw his way clear to do so. It is understood that the captain and some of his supporters were disappointed in their hopes that Mr. Bowser would follow up the nomination by accepting Capt. Macintosh as his candidate.

Efforts are now being made to induce Col. W. W. Foster to run as a Conservative Unionist candidate for the Islands, and if he consents there will be the spectacle of the president of British Columbia Conservative Association opposing the man whom Conservatives elected at a by-election to support Premier Tolmie.

Nomination troubles have caused North Saanich Conservatives to break away from the main Islands group.

ON TRIAL IN MASSACHUSETTS

KENNETH BUCK CYRIL BUCK

Barnstable, Mass., June 13.—The state will ask for the maximum penalties for Kenneth and Cyril Buck if they are found guilty as abductors in their trial in progress here to-day.

District Attorney William C. Crossley declared in his opening statement to-day he would prove the brothers plotted the kidnaping of ten-year-old Peggy McMath, that Kenneth abducted the child May 2, that both collected $60,000 ransom from her father, and that they returned the girl unharmed to her parents May 5.

Yesterday, the first day of the trial, the jury was chosen.

DOUKHOBORS IN BIG SUIT

J. M. Hackney of St. Paul, Minn., Wants More Than $1,000,000

Canadian Press

Regina, June 13.—Action to recover more than $1,000,000 from Peter Verigin, head of the Doukhobors, as damages and commissions was commenced here to-day.

The claim, for $1,050,701.44, filed by Gordon and Gordon, solicitors for Joseph M. Hackney, St. Paul, Minn., names the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood Limited and Peter Verigin, as defendants.

The claim dates back to 1929, when the leader of the sect and followers sought distant fields. Verigin, according to the statement of claim, as president of the community, authorized Hackney, as sole agent to find 1,000,000 acres of land in Mexico and allegedly agreed to pay the owners $1 per acre above the purchase price.

The extra dollar per acre was in turn to be paid to the colonizer as commission.

Hackney claims he journeyed to Mexico and secured options on not 1,000,000 but 10,000,000 acres of land in order to give the prospective tenants a wide selection. The land, he claims, could have been purchased at prices ranging from $1.50 to $15 per acre.

WENT TO MEXICO

Later four groups of brotherhood members inspected the large parcels of land, selected 1,000,000 acres, agreed to pay $6 an acre, and the owners in turn prepared to pay Hackney his $1,000,000 commission.

Subsequently the community represented by Verigin, failed to consummate the deal, and the plaintiff was out his $1,000,000.

About the same time the move was contemplated the colonizer states he visited Mexico to arrange passports for the newcomers and did secure them for Verigin and his family at an outlay of $48,470.

The next year, July, 1930, the move was still in prospect and in reply to a request from Verigin and associates he advanced $34,791.03 to the American Slavic Colonization Board Inc. The money, according to documents filed, was to bring certain Doukhobor refugees from Russia to join the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood on immigration to Mexico. Verigin, the plaintiff claims, agreed to repay the advance on demand, but so far has neglected to respond to repeated requests.

As a final touch to the transaction that did not materialize, Verigin, the plaintiff says, borrowed $10,000 on a demand note drawn at 6 per cent. Interest from June 30, 1931.

STORM INDICATIONS

Nome, June 13.—A dropping barometer heralded a coming storm here today as Nome people eagerly scanned the western sky for a glimpse of Jimmy Mattern's plane.

Foggy weather and low temperatures over the ice-choked Bering Sea were believed to have caused Mattern to detour from a straight course between Khabarovsk, Siberia, and Nome, and no uneasiness was felt when the aviator failed to arrive on schedule.

Slight deviation from beeline course to follow Kamchatka coast might add several hours to Mattern's flying time.

With a falling barometer, however, the gradually rising wind and action of the sea indicated a storm in the offing.

AUDIENCES TO SING "LA-LA-LA"

New York, June 13 (Canadian Press).—Edwin Franko Goldman, whose band plays to huge audiences in the Central Park Hall, has written a new march, "Cheerio." He hopes the audiences will join in singing it. "I made it so simple," he said. "The only words in it are la-la-la."

If doughnuts crack when flying, use less baking powder. They come out best when the dough is as soft as can be handled.

An arch-shaped tire has been invented that does not contain air under pressure, but which is more resilient than solid tires.

Work For Jobless Of Calgary Soon

Canadian Press

Calgary, June 13.—The Calgary city commissioners have been authorized by the city council to conduct a complete survey of projects likely to provide useful work for unemployed men instead of direct relief.

Among the projects proposed are: Improvements to the Glenmore Park site, building a double road along the southwestern side of St. George's Island, to form a levee as a protection against floods, and renovation of city properties.

The problem of finding work for men on relief involves the part the provincial and federal governments may play in the costs.

MATTERN PLANE IS NOW OVERDUE

Canadian Press

Edmonton, June 13.—James Mattern, Texas flier, was nine hours overdue at Nome on his globe-circling journey at 1 p.m., M.S.T., to-day and had not been reported since he left Khabarovsk, Siberia, at 12 p.m. Monday M.S.T.

The flier, airmen here believed, either was in trouble or else head winds and storms encountered along his route had forced him to land at Jetroplavosk, lonely outpost on the Kamchatak Peninsula. In either event it appeared definite Mattern could not reach Edmonton from Nome before tomorrow afternoon.

Plight of Mattern in the event of a forced landing anywhere in the region over which he must travel to Nome would be serious, although not hopeless. The seas are dotted with small islands, uninhabited except by a few natives. Should he reach one of those islands and locate the natives, he would be safe, although even a well-organized search might fail to find him for considerable time.

Selective Cutting Of Timber Urged

Canadian Press

Vancouver, June 13.—Strong arguments for selective cutting of North Pacific Coast timber were advanced to forestry section of Fifth Pacific Science Congress this morning by T. T. Munger of United States forest service, Portland, Ore.

Mr. Munger argued for "selective," as against "clear" cutting from the standpoint of silviculture and of material returns to lumbermen.

Some of his points were: Lower unit cost of logging, transformation of stagnant forests into growing forests, regeneration and preservation of good silvicultural conditions, easier fire control, more rapid reirement of capital investment and continuous production

Elephant Killed By Clot of Blood

Associated Press

Seattle, June 13.—A clot of blood in the right ventricle of a 125-pound heart was given yesterday as the cause of death last Saturday of Tusko, the largest elephant in captivity.

Dr. G. A. Wingley, veterarian, performed an autopsy. He said the clot was at least five years old, weighed several pounds and might have been caused by excessive richness of the blood and lack of exercise. Deemed "dangerous," Tusko had been rather closely confined the last five years.

The carcass was cut up for fertilizer factories.

Boyd and Companions Reach Haiti Destination After Forced Landing

Associated Press

Port-au-Prince, Haiti, June 13.—Captain J. Errol Boyd, daring Toronto airman, and his two companions, landed safely to-day in Port-au-Prince from St. March, Haiti, where they were forced down yesterday evening after flying 2,471 miles non-stop from New York.

Boyd, Robert G. Lyon, the co-pilot, and H. P. Davis, writer-observer, were dirty and tired, for they had had no sleep since Saturday night to speak of.

"It was a hard trip with bad weather, rain and fog most of Sunday night," the Canadian Great War flier said. "We encountered head winds, sometimes fifty miles an hour, on Monday near Cuba, and there were tropical rainstorms.

MOTOR STOPPED

"As we were gaining altitude to clear the mountains near St. March the engine quit and we had to make a forced landing in the mud flats. Natives helped move the plane to higher ground for a take-off, but because of the darkness and the unfamiliar ground we waited for morning."

Davis said Boyd had made a wonderful landing at St. March, as an error of twenty-five feet would have resulted in the wrecking of the plane in a deep ditch. Had the engine quit ten minutes earlier they would have come down in the ocean.

RAIDS ON NAZIS MADE IN AUSTRIA

Headquarters Closed by Government After Bombings In Vienna

Associated Press

Vienna, June 13.—With Vienna in an uproar over a new series of bombings which Chancellor Dollfuss's government unhesitatingly attributed to "the brown terror," Adolf Hitler's homeland became an unsafe place to-day for his Nazi followers.

All Nazi headquarters which were not closed yesterday were raided and shut up by federal police to-day, and hundreds of Nazis, including a score of German citizens, were jailed.

Over the week-end and yesterday a series of bombings resulted in the deaths of two persons and injuries to at least five others. Two new bomb explosions occurred early this morning.

One wrecked a fixed-price store in the Favoritenstrasse, and the other demolished the Boy Scout headquarters' hut in a suburb.

CHINA - JAPAN TRUCE OPPOSED

Canadian Press

Hongkong, June 13.—In a statement addressed to the League of Nations, the Soviet government and the signatories of the Nine-power pact, the Southwest Political Council yesterday condemned China's truce with Japan as a pact of surrender which the Nanking regime could implement only by precipitating a civil war.

The council declared it would not recognize the armistice, by which Japanese forces recently withdrew from the neighborhood of Peiping on condition Chinese military activities cease in the north.

The statement said the council would be compelled to take steps to safeguard the honor and vital interests of China as a nation determined not to be conquered.

TEN PER CENT DEBT PAYMENT BY BRITAIN

By GEORGE HAMBLETON,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, June 13.—The World Economic Conference marched briskly along to-day with side glances at the spectre of war debts.

Getting down to debate in which great and small alike were limited to fifteen minutes, the great gathering of the nations of the world heard the voices of France, Italy, Germany, Japan, Poland, Bulgaria, South Africa and Cuba.

Two of the spokesmen—General Jan Smuts of South Africa, and Guido Jung of Italy—echoed the words of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald that although war debts were not a matter for the world conference, they must be grappled with before a general solution of the world's difficulties could be reached.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE,
Associated Press Staff Writer

London, June 13.—Development of a European bloc of debtor nations to force the United States to settle the war debts question immediately was predicted to-day by close observers at the World Economic Conference as leading delegates took the floor to expound the views of their governments.

Sensation followed sensation in the morning session, which met in a state of excitement as a result of the war debts problem with which the British Cabinet was struggling to-day.

First, Secretary of State Cordell Hull, who was to deliver the first speech, did not appear, and Premier Edouard Daladier of France took his place.

Word from the United States delegation headquarters was that there had been a delay in preparing Mr. Hull's speech.

It was denied the debt crisis had anything to do with the delay, although it was understood the Americans did discuss the debt imbroglio, which Premier Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain, chairman of the conference, precipitated yesterday by raising the question of inter-governmental debts on the floor of the conference.

Then Finance Finister Guido Jung of Italy and General Jan Christian Smuts of the Union of South Africa took the floor.

Signor Jung, like the British Prime Minister, demanded immediate settlement of the debt question

PROBLEMS STILL ARISE

General Smuts, in his straight-from-the-shoulder manner, declared the debt issue had been settled at the Lausanne Conference and that should be the end of it. South Africa's veteran fighting statesman went even further in his demand for settlement of the war debt issue than any up to that time. He pointed a finger directly at the United States in declaring that despite the Lausanne settlement financial problems were still arising from the war.

The United States, General Smuts maintained, had "failed to fall in line" after the Lausanne reparations conference.

General Smuts asserted:

"The Lausanne conference a year ago placed the gravest responsibility where it belonged—on the shoulders of the United States. The United States delayed to fall into line."

JAPAN CO-OPERATES

Viscount Ishii, representing Japan, pledged his government's wholehearted co-operation during the conference. Japan, through the veteran statesman, declared for restoration of the gold standard—with the reservation such as Great Britain and other nations make that favorable conditions for its operations must first be created.

Mr. MacDonald adjourned the session at 12.40 p.m. until 3 o'clock. At the adjournment, it was believed Secretary Hull would defer his appearance until to-morrow.

Conference observers said they believed insistent reference to debts would make it difficult for him to avoid mentioning the problem, at least indirectly.

At United States headquarters it was said Secretary of State Hull would speak to-morrow afternoon.

Just before resumption of the afternoon session it was stated in well-informed quarters that in the event of the great powers failing to arrive at concrete decisions, the Scandinavian countries, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg were prepared to carry out an arrangement made recently and take drastic independent action.

It was understood the form this action would take would be on the lines of an economic bloc designed to be as independent of the rest of Europe as possible.

NON-AGGRESSION PACT

Another bit of unofficial but sensational conference news was that Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet commissar of Foreign Affairs, was expected to propose a world pact for economic non-aggression.

The first business of the afternoon session was to deal with a resolution of the International Labor Office advocating the stabilizing of money and price levels, the removal of excessive trade restrictions, an increase in purchasing power and public works programmes.

After the resolution had been introduced it was announced it would be referred to the proper committee as soon as the committee had been named.

The first speaker of the afternoon session was Baron Konstantin von Neurath, German Foreign Minister.

ITALY'S COURSE

Rome, June 13.—The Fascist Grand Council in a midnight meeting reached an agreement, "to be made public at an opportune moment," on the war debt instalment due the United States Thursday.

A SHORT SERIES
What I Think Of Special Pack Cedar Shingles

Here is what another professional shingler says:

"I've been laying shingles in Victoria for thirty years. During my time I've seen plenty of good shingles and plenty of the other kind. When I speak of a good shingle, I don't mean a good grade of shingle. I mean a shingle that's cut right and is made of good live cedar. That kind of shingle means one of the old-time thirty-year roofs, if it's laid right and the nails are right. Some shingle roofs don't last half that!

"When I heard of SPECIAL PACK shingles, I thought it was just advertising bunk. Now I've seen them and used them I've got to say they are as good as anything I've seen, perhaps a little better.

BENNETT SAYS BUSINESS GAINS

Premier Interviewed by Reporters in London on Conditions in Canada

By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, June 13.—Prime Minister R. B. Bennett brings from Canada word of good cheer. Here for the World Economic Conference, he told a gathering of newspapermen at Canada House today how the last few weeks had seen a substantial improvement in Canadian conditions.

Railway earnings were back almost to last year's figures, and retail traders were beginning to restock empty shelves, the Prime Minister said.

EXCHANGE STABILIZATION

Mr. Bennett emphasized the importance to Canada, as a trading country, of the stabilization of exchanges, one of the main problems confronting the conference.

Questioned on tariff reductions, Mr. Bennett said he did not think any country would oppose lessening restrictions on international trade providing its own economic and industrial life was not endangered.

The Canadian Prime Minister expressed the opinion the world conference would have disposed of its most important business by the end of July.

THREE MURDERS IN NEW YORK

Bodies of Petty Racketeers Found in Cheap Rooms In Tenement

Associated Press

New York, June 13.—The trail of a murder mob hunted for a dozen recent homicides was freshly marked to-day with the blood of a triple slaying.

The bodies were found late yesterday evening in a $6-a-week flat in an East 65th Street tenement. Each had been stabbed in the chest. The death weapon was an ice pick. Part of it was found, broken off in the temple of one of the victims. The dead men, known to police as petty racketeers, were: Charles Cabrese, Salvator Tulumello and Louis Sally.

All three were expensively and flashly dressed, in sharp contrast to the plainness of the flat. They had been dead probably since Saturday.

Each had been trussed and gagged. Adhesive tape sealed shut their mouths and eyes. It was thus—gagged, trussed and blindfolded—that they met death.

MAN LONG IN JAIL PAROLED

Associated Press

Seattle, June 13.—Confirming an announcement of the Civil Liberties Union in New York Governor Clarence D. Martin to-day said Bert Bland, one of the I.W.W. group sentenced to long prison terms following the Centralia, Washington, Armistice Day riot in 1919, had been paroled from the state penitentiary.

The governor, who was reached by telephone at the state reformatory at Monroe, also revealed John Lamb, another of the group active in the riot, in which several World War veterans were killed, had been released from prison in April. With the release of Lamb and Bland, only two of the seven imprisoned for the riot and slayings remain in the penitentiary. They are Britt Smith and Ray Beck.

Smith, the governor said, joined Bland in applying for a release. The governor said he had not formally acted on either application, although Bland had been permitted to leave the prison in custody of his brother, O. C. Bland, who was paroled by former Governor Roland H. Hartley in 1931.

CHURCH ABLE TO REDUCE DEFICIT

Canadian Press

Peterboro, Ont., June 13.—The Presbyterian Church in Canada operated last year with a deficit of $36,432. This was reported to the General Assembly here yesterday by the church board of administration.

At the same time expenditures were slashed all along the line and, despite the year's deficit, the church reduced its accumulated deficit by $17,695, largely by a special collection of $47,877 in the "one step forward" fund.

When financial matters came before the assembly yesterday an overture from the Montreal Presbytery recommended a commission to handle the church's finances. It said the presbytery had received reliable information that of the $166,000 of reserves which should be on hand, less than $30,000 was there, the balance having been spent, "and that against this $30,000 of the reserves still intact, there is a present indebtedness far exceeding this amount."

The overture said $32,000 had been borrowed from the pension fund, but this was termed "absolutely inaccurate" by E. W. McNeill, church treasurer.

The treasurer said it was "a calamity most deplorable" the Montreal Presbytery overture had ever been made. It contained many inaccuracies, many relating to the reserves of the church. He presented a chart showing every reserve fund of the church since its inception—"showing every dollar, where it came from and all about it."

MORE PEOPLE RIDE ON GOODYEAR TIRES THAN ON ANY OTHER KIND

Guaranteed for a year
—but look at these tires after a year's use—seeing is believing!

Goodyear's greater mileage and inbuilt quality far outlast the guarantee. Look at the 12 different Goodyear Tires on 12 different makes of cars shown here. Each of these tires has been in service for over 12 months—the period of the guarantee—and has run from 6,500 to 9,000 miles—yet each is still sharp-edged, sturdy, ready to give a big bonus of trouble-free service.

You get a guarantee with almost any tire. With a Goodyear you get many thousands of miles of extra service. And that is a basic reason why MORE PEOPLE RIDE ON GOODYEAR TIRES THAN ON ANY OTHER KIND.

COLONEL DREW AGAIN ASSAILS PRIVATE MANUFACTURE OF ARMS

"The people who circulate war talk in its many forms are but few in number; they have great money power behind them, that is all. They are what I describe as the general staff of the forces of hell."—Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, president of the Disarmament Conference, at Geneva.

The foregoing statement prefaces another article on the operations of armament firms in the latest issue of Maclean's Magazine by Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew. The author points out that these companies have had little reason to complain of the results of the first year of the Disarmament Conference, for instead of the reductions for which great hope was held out, the naval and military appropriations of the world have shown a substantial increase for this year. Colonel Drew sees need for drastic action if this continued armament race is to be stopped, and he quotes a part of the address which Sir Herbert Lawrence, himself a distinguished soldier, delivered at the recent annual meeting of Vickers Limited, of which huge concern he is chairman. This is it:

I would refer to the misleading views promulgated by certain pacific societies regarding private armament firms. Drawing upon very vivid imaginations, they represent such firms as secretly stirring up strife in various quarters of the globe, with the deliberate intent to bring about war for the sole purpose of selling armaments. So far as your company is concerned, there never has been and never will be the shadow of substance for such suggestions. The military, air and naval advisers in every country determine the extent of the armaments required, and the direction of the supplies depends upon the efficiency of the products offered and the price.

It is true that Vickers-Armstrong relies very largely on armament orders for its existence. On the other hand, the safety of the empire in the event of aggression by some other power also depends on the capacity of the company to increase production of armaments at short notice.

So long as a British navy, a British army and a British air force are necessary, so long must the technical establishment and skilled men be retained—either by Vickers-Armstrong or in some other works—to supply their needs. The existence of armament firms is the result—not the cause—of the incidence of war.

This ingenious confusion of appeals to patriotism and scorn of those "pacific societies" which would impugn the purity of motives of his and other armament companies, Colonel Drew proceeds, was duly adopted with the rest of the report as the official statement of the world's largest armament company. It is well, however, in giving his words their due weight, to remember that Sir Herbert Lawrence in himself represents one of those appeals to patriotism for which armament companies are famous. It always leaves such a good impression when the spokesman of a company which makes its money from preparation for war is a distinguished general or admiral.

In fairness to Sir Herbert Lawrence, we read further, it must be said that it is most unlikely that he knows the intimate details of the sales methods of the vast concern over which he presides. He retired on pension after a distinguished military career in 1922, and it was only then that he became associated with Vickers. While his words gain added weight because of the respect which his military services have won for him in Great Britain, his work with the company has not been such that he can either deny or affirm from his personal knowledge the charge that armament companies have done everything possible to stimulate the sale of arms. For that reason, Colonel Drew argues, "his statement is doubly dangerous."

The author observes that in seeking summarily to dispose of the complaints against private armament companies, Sir Herbert Lawrence contents himself with calling them nothing more than the result of the vivid imaginations of "certain pacific societies." But Colonel Drew records the fact that two weeks before the annual meeting of Vickers Limited, a remarkable gathering took place at Geneva—the first of its kind since 1918, if not in all history—when veterans from fifteen nations which fought during the Great War presented the following resolution to the Conference:

The ex-servicemen and war victims grouped in the C.I.A.M.A.C. (International Conference of Associations of Ex-Servicemen and War Victims) and the F.I.D.A.C. (Interallied Federation of Ex-Servicemen), assembled for the first time in a common effort, evoking the memory of the millions of war dead and speaking in the name of the above two organizations which comprise eight million members of the following countries: Austria, Belgium, United Kingdom, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, France, Germany, Poland, Portugal, Roumania, Jugoslavia, as well as the Free City of Danzig and the Territory of Memel, have adopted the following resolution:

Solemnly recalling the fact that peace is the primary condition for the happiness and prosperity of peoples, and that the ex-servicemen and war victims are its best qualified defenders; that its maintenance is only possible when based on the respect of treaties and equality of rights for all states, and by observing the following great principles: compulsory arbitration, or in any event the settlement of differences without recourse to force; security and disarmament, both moral and material:

They affirm that moral disarmament entails the suppression of everything which publicly—and particularly in schools—tends to hinder mutual understanding between the peoples.

Material disarmament should be substantial, simultaneous and progressive; it should include the suppression of private manufacture of and private traffic in arms, together with effective mutual international control.

They insist firmly that the president and members of the General Conference for the Reduction and Limitation of Armaments interpret in their decisions the wishes thus expressed, and that, instead of seeking to "humanize" warfare, they institute an effective organization for the prevention and, if need be, repression of any aggression.

The foregoing was assented to by the delegates of thirteen nations; the representatives of 4,000,000 United States and Italian delegates, first of all prepared to accept the main resolution, presented one with a briefer text but with the same general effect—demanding both moral and material disarmament.

Urging the earnest consideration of these resolutions, M. Morel of France said in part: "Mr. President, these men who have come from all parts have had their taste of glory and carried away on their lips a bitter taste; these men, who went to war with the immense hope that thereafter war would be removed from human possibility, do not intend that their sacrifice shall have been in vain. It matters very little to the mothers, many of whom already mourn the loss of a husband, whether the children which have cost them so much suffering and trouble should be killed by shells of a calibre of 75 or 105 millimetres, whether their lungs are eaten away by yellow or green gas. What they desire is that these lives, which are so necessary to the world's work, may be sheltered from all shells and gases. That is why we ask for a substantial reduction of armaments." Colonel John Brown, chairman of the British Legion, declared that his organization gave the resolution which demanded the suppression of private manufacture of arms unqualified support. He demanded action—more acts and fewer pacts.

Colonel Drew is doing a great public service by exposing what is going on behind the scenes, the various means which are being employed to keep the nerves of the world on edge, the whipping up of war scares upon which the armament manufacturers thrive.

HOW MUCH IS ENOUGH GOVERNMENT?

Are the people of Canada buying too much government? Dr. Horace L. Brittain, director of the Citizens' Research Institute, of Ottawa and Toronto, thinks they are and ascribes to it the fundamental reason for the current cries of taxpayers.

In an Institute study he finds that with less than 11,000,000 of a population, we have between 100,000 and 125,000 persons sitting on elective bodies, all having the duty of producing governmental services, all having the right to spend money and all directly or indirectly the right to levy taxes. Besides the federal Parliament and nine provincial Legislatures, there are 3,955 municipal councils, 23,860 school boards and a large number of other public authorities. He suggests that if the number of public bodies could be reduced to 5,000 and the number of their members to 25,000, it might cramp the style of some orators and blast the political chances of some candidates, but it would eliminate much cost and generally work to curtail the rising trend in the spending of public monies.

Canadians in 1931, according to the Institute figures, bought and paid for government of all kinds to a total of $1,050,000,000. This works out at $101.46 for every man, woman and child in the country, or $405 for the average family. The expenditure of the Dominion government alone is now fifty per cent greater than the whole national debt before the war. From 1914 to 1931 our population increased thirty-five per cent, and our national wealth by 160 per cent, but our governmental expenditures rose by 254 per cent. Besides annual expenditures, our various governing bodies have borrowed on the credit of these same taxpayers more than 6.3 billions of dollars. This is about $650 for every man, woman and child, or $2,600 for the average family. It means that on every home, in addition to any private mortgage, there is the equivalent of a $2,600 public mortgage. Thus is placed on each family the annual interest burden on this, as well as the $405 tax contribution for current purchases in government.

How much is enough government?

At a Conservative meeting in Saanich the other night, Hon. Mr. Dennies, Minister of Labor in the provincial government, said the time had arrived to study the problem of unemployment from a new angle, as he believed it was possible to absorb into industry a large number of men now on relief. If Mr. Dennies has a solution up his sleeve now is his time to produce it. Even Mr. Bennett would be glad to hear about it.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

INTERNATIONAL PEACE

Professor R. A. Eastwood in The Millgate Monthly

There is no reason to suppose that because states do not readily submit to international organization today they will be equally unwilling in the future. But just as the development of national justice has been gradual, so also will be the development of international justice. All law rests ultimately on the consent of the generality of those whom it governs, and the best service that can be done for internationalism to-day is to attempt to select those subjects on which a general consent may be obtained. They may be few and by no means so advanced as some might wish. But general consent on small things is better than disagreement on bigger issues; for consent produces the habit of consent, and by that alone can development be fostered.

The Border Cities Star

Professor L. A. Prowant of McCracken University, is said to have made a perfect score in a game of Russian checkers, taking the twelve men of his opponent without losing a man of his own. It was one of those once-in-a-lifetime affairs. "Prowant now fears that he has nothing more to look forward to," a dispatch says.

Well, the problem of perpetual motion is still to be solved, also that of bringing together those who need goods but have no money with which to buy and those who have goods but no customers to whom to sell them.

A THOUGHT

For what is a man profited, if he should gain the whole world and lose his own soul?—St. Matthew xvi 26.

A single soul is richer than all the worlds.—Alexander Smith.

Loose Ends

Human nature is revealed in luxurious surroundings—the old are distressed about the young—gorillas come back to Europe—ants fight, too—and I discover the native nobility of Canada.

By H. B. W.

BARE SOULS

THERE ARE a few moments in a man's life when his soul is suddenly revealed and laid bare. You can find out what kind of a man he is in such moments, as for instance, when he is telling a joke, talking to a child, making a speech, disciplining his wife or buying a tag. You can tell a lot about a man when is buying a tag. So the other day, while I was waiting for a friend in the Empress Hotel, I watched one of the younger and more beautiful matrons of Victoria society trying to sell tags to the fashionable crowd which surged through these premises. (The B.C. Conservative Association Executive was surging there at the moment, so you realize how fashionable the occasion was).

To observe a young and beautiful matron trying to sell tags for a worthy charity is rather a disillusioning experience. You would imagine that people who live at the Empress Hotel and surge about its luxurious lobby could spare a few cents for a tag, especially when it is offered by an attractive wench. You would suppose that none would refuse to buy. Well, my careful record showed that 60 per cent refused to buy during the hour I was observing the scene. One prosperous-looking gentleman from the United States received about a hundred dollars in change from the desk and his pockets jingled with coin, but he said to the fair tagger, "No, thank you," and walked away rapidly. A Canadian statesman who is reputed to be worth about a million said he had no change. He went over to the cigar counter, changed a $10 bill and returned to give the tagger a dime.

Many persons whom the tagger accosted walked straight ahead without noticing her in the most revolting fashion, and if no one had been looking I feel sure they would have knocked her down and tramped on her. This brutality seemed to worry her at first, but she got used to insult after a while and quite callous. She realizes now, poor girl, that even amid the luxury of the Empress Hotel many men are savages in disguise. But as an islander it was gratifying to me that most of them were not natives of these shores.

WICKED YOUNG

DISTURBING INDEED to the military mind is the present wave of pacifism which seems to be affecting the educated young of the world. The Oxford Union having voted not to bear arms "for King or country," they took a poll on the same question in the universities of the United States with interesting results, just published. In twenty-seven states at seventy colleges a poll of 22,627 students showed 39 per cent for downright pacifism; 33 per cent for bearing arms only in case of invasion, and only 28 per cent for bearing arms in any United States war.

At the same time in France, the world's chief military power, the growing dislike of the young for slaughter was causing the authorities alarm. The Surete Generale (secret police) has been so distressed by the increasing numbers of conscientious objectors to compulsory military service that it has issued letters of warning to all its branches. It says that the movement has produced "serious effects among young soldiers, reservists and even reserve officers," and "this movement is liable to gain a certain momentum i. steps are not taken."

In all the nations the old men will feel this same alarm over the pacific tendencies of the young. They think the race is degenerating when the young do not want to fight in foreign wars in the interests of other nations or large business interests as they have been doing now for about 5,000 years. It is painful for the old men and they take it almost as a personal insult from their sons. Bu they overlook one thing—the world belongs and always has, to the young. They will inherit in a few years and do what they like with it. What the old men think, what we all think now, has nothing to do with the case. If the young don't want to engage in carnage and hand on the cost of it to their young, as has been the practise up to now, that is their business. We can get as mad as we like about it, but it won't make any difference. And we haven't made such a brilliant success of the world that we can afford to ridicule the next generation.

GORILLAS

STILL, THE older generation is doing its best, and probably with success, to save the young from the dangers of peace. It has succeeded in making the world more hostile and the nations more warlike than ever before and, by a system of economic nationalism, has prepared the way for a bigger and better slaughter, since it is obvious that economic warfare, and the struggle for markets must in the end lead to armed warfare as it always has in the past. Just as I was writing that, I happened to glance at the picture section in The New York Times showing a large photograph of French citizens being instructed in the use of gas masks, in preparation for future needs. They are systematically instructing the French population how to use a new type of mask which makes the wearer look precisely like a gorilla. Every citizen will keep one hanging by his bedside at night, no doubt, in case of trouble. I suppose the idea will spread all over Europe and we shall see a whole Continent returning to the physical as well as the mental characteristics of the gorilla.

ANTS

YESTERDAY I WAS watching the behaviour of some ants in the woods. A war was evidently in progress and some little red ants were bringing home the corpses of some big black ones. A little red ant can carry a black ant ten times his size and weight with ease, and apparently is a more nimble fighter. A state of war exists in all strata of nature, from men down, but observe this: The red ants did not slaughter the red ants, and the black ants lived at peace with one another. They slaughtered only another race of creatures. Men are the only animals which systematically slaughter their own kind. Besides, among ants and sensible things of that sort, civilization is so simple that, if only two ants were left in the whole world, they would soon rebuild it. They would contrive an ant hill on the old model, having inherited the civilized instinct from their parents. Whereas with us, another worthwhile war, according to the best minds of the day, would destroy civilization altogether, and it might require hundreds of years to build it up again. We don't inherit the instinct for civilization in its present form. My own theory is that this form of civilization, not being instinctive, is not suited to the nature of men and ultimately will perish anyway. But not until after the holidays, I hope.

NOBILITY

IN THE furthest wilds of Saanich this week I made an interesting discovery. I discovered the real nobility, the undisputed aristocracy and quality of this country. As a matter of fact, I was in tow of a couple of dairy experts who were looking over the Jersey herds of the island, and I found that the lineage and pedigrees of these animals was a serious, indeed a sacred thing, besides which the human aristocracy of the ian appeared rather parvenu and the proposal to institute titles here quite ridiculous. These Jersey breeders know every bull who over lived in western Canada, I should judge. They look at an animal and instantly recognize him as the great grandson of Pretoria Oxford Janet sired by Willoughby Yorkshire Dawn and that his daughters are So-and-So and So-and-So, with names which make Burke's Peerage appear somewhat nouveau riche.

Every ancestor of these herds is known for fifty generations, every quality on both sides of the family, every indiscretion, every heavy milk producer, every light one. These connoisseurs know besides where every ancestor and every descendant is living at the moment, and how much milk she is giving. They know the reputation of every bull in Canada.

Here indeed is a real nobility, native to our country, bred here of good Canadian stock, fattened on Canadian grass, married to Canadian daughters. Besides it any nobility which Premier Bennett can create with his new titles will seem cheap and tawdry and declasse. It will be a nobility purchased with campaign funds and snobbery. While here is a tradition built through the years on quality and achievement only. Why waste our time talking about the bull of a new Canadian nobility while at our very doors, on the lush grass of Saanich, is the real, ancient nobility of Canadian bull?

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

INTO YOUR DAYS

Into your days weave poetry,
Though not, perhaps, in words;
But learn the April ecstasy
Of singing brooks and birds.
Let rustling leaf and whispering grass
Their secrets share with you,
And all the little winds that pass
Give you their dreams anew.

Through all your hours let music stray,
Not chords of harp or lute;
But thought's rapt harmonies that play
When viol and lyre are mute.
Weave song and music to and fro
Through all your hours and days,
Until the rhythmic patterns flow
Serenely, through your ways.

"HONEST JOHN OLIVER"

To the Editor:—I am advised by J. M. Dent and Sons that the printing of the biography "Honest John Oliver" has been started and the first proofs have been mailed, but, owing to distance and time consumed in communication it will necessarily be a considerable time yet before the books can be delivered to subscribers here.

I wish to take this opportunity of thanking the many kind friends in Victoria, who, by subscribing in advance for more than half the required number have made this enterprise possible, nor can I forget the fine courtesy with which, with rare exceptions, I was received by those who for various reasons declined to subscribe.

The success of this appeal, in a period of depression, I attribute to two factors—admiration for the character of John Oliver and personal kindness to myself. One result has been to increase my esteem for my fellow citizens and my faith in the goodness of humanity at large. I shall be rewarded if those who have helped me may in their turn find in the story of John Oliver's life inspiration and courage for "the living of these days."

THANKS THE E. & N.

To the Editor:—I believe it is unusual for the public to thank a railroad company for anything, but I do feel constrained to thank the E. & N. Railroad for resuming the Sunday service they temporarily suspended some months ago. There are many like myself, tied down to business six days in the week, who welcome the opportunity of getting away from town for a quiet day's relaxation in the country. The train left not too early in the morning—9.15 and returned to town at 8 p.m. The passengers generally expressed the hope that this Sunday service would be continued without any further suspension.

Thanking you, E. & N. Railroad, for a day's rest and pleasure.

THE RED CROSS APPEAL

To the Editor: — Although unable, because of my illness, to take any active part in the campaign, I should value the opportunity of contributing through your paper, a word of commendation of the Red Cross appeal of this week.

I well remember a dinner in the Empress Hotel—a war-time occasion, probably in 1916—when the speaker stirred all of us "stay-at-home" people to renewed effort for the men overseas by picturing the day when we should be welcoming back the wounded, broken men from the front. "Think," said the speaker, "of how you will feel in that hour, if you have done less than your utmost while staying in the comparative comfort of home "surroundings."

It is this note of "seasonable remembrance" that I should like to sound in regard to the present appeal. For myself, I count it a privilege to have been allowed to serve on the Red Cross Workshop executive committee since its inception, and in this way to have helped thirty-odd returned men (on the yearly average) back to something like a normal way of living.

Now that both the good work and the need being made known, I cannot believe that Victoria people will do anything else than provide sufficiently for the continuance of the shop—and so maintain one of the best bits of work we have ever tackled.

Bishop of Columbia.

THAT "SKILLED TRADE"

To the Editor:—It's always refreshing to read H.B.W.'s rambling remarks in "Loose Ends," but to-night in reading what he has to say regarding the reactions of the man in the street toward politics and politicians, one rather thinks that H.B.W.'s ends are in this case rather too loose.

Because the man in the street objects to the preponderance of professional politicians seeking honors, we are told that the intelligence of voters is not very high, that politics is a skilled trade, and that only those with years of training are qualified to act as legislators

It all sounds very nice, and very reasonable, but according to the homely proverb, the "proof of the pudding is in the eating." We are to-day eating the pudding which these same experienced chefs compounded for us, and horrible is the indigestion we are suffering therefrom.

No need to labor the point, for years we have suffered all kinds of maladies from the concoctions of these professional chefs. To state the issue baldly, they're no good. Let's away with them.

As one nears the bottom of his column one finds that even H.B.W. agrees, for he says that among the civilized nations we are the most stupidly governed.

I suggest that he gives further consideration to the subject, and that before he writes another piece upon this topic he goes into consultation with the Little Girl from next door, from whose youthful and unspoiled wisdom he may derive some glimmering of truth.

All of which is submitted with humility, charity and kindness.

HOW TIMES HAVE CHANGED!

To the Editor:—In taking a stroll through the Gorge Park last Saturday evening I could not but contrast the scene of desolation that reigned there with the gaity and mirth of a quarter of a century ago.

Standing on the former picnic grounds with the lovely hues of the setting sun reflected on the limpid waters of the Gorge, one could almost hear the shouts of "Peanuts here, five cents a bag!"

There was the shooting gallery from which came the incessant crack of rifles, the tea rooms, band stand and merry-go-round, and later the scenic railway which with the clatter and rattle of its little cars and the screams of their occupants all contributed to make Saturday night at the Gorge Park an occasion to be well remembered.

And then the moving pictures. Clean pictures were shown without charge, usually finishing about 10 or 11 o'clock by a picture of the King. As a rule, however, before the reigning monarch's countenance was thrown on the silver screen some of the crowd, usually those with small children (of which I was one) had commenced making tracks towards the street car. Then by the time the pictures were concluded, from the picnic grounds to the car terminus was one black moving mass of humanity.

On one occasion the writer recalls being in the open car the B.C. Electric used to run in those days, when through some error the operator went past a loop where the cars were supposed to pass each other resulting in his finding himself head on with another car on the single track. Fortunately there was no accident, quite the contrary, for the car was reversed and backed to the double track with the entire passenger list singing "We Won't Get Home Until Morning!"

I was recalled from my retrospections by the honk of an automobile horn on the Gorge Road, opposite the gradually darkening expanse of water, and I found myself gazing, not at the Gorge of twenty-five years ago, but the Gorge Park of to-day, consisting of long uncut grass, a deserted tennis court and a delapidated bathing house.

What a difference!

THE KING'S ENGLISH

To the Editor:—I am sure that many who heard His Majesty the King's speech this morning at the opening of the Economic Conference in London must have been thrilled by the voice of His Majesty. The English tongue in the mouth of the King has all those qualities which make the British proud of his mother tongue.

As the radio brings the question of spoken English more and more to the front as a subject of primary importance, I am frequently asked: "What is the best English?" I usually add to my definition the remark that it is the English tongue as it is spoken by three great Georges, George, our King, George Arliss and George Bernard Shaw. The King's English is no meaningless phrase, but the finest example of the spoken language his subjects can have, and it is a patriotic duty to preserve the beauty of such a tongue.

It is noteworthy that the narrowed vowel sounds so often heard and so often mistaken for good speech and which are so prejudicial to musical tone are entirely absent fr speech and voice of the King demonstrates the finest qualiti are, simplicity, clearness, vowe

Ask Governments To Handle All Relief

Esquimalt Council Requests Provincial and Federal Authorities to Accept Full Cost

Would Have Burden Assumed Under 50-50 Basis to Relieve Municipality

Initial action in taking advantage of the special clause in the British Columbia - Ottawa relief agreement, which provides for any municipality making application to have the governments take over full control of relief was taken by Esquimalt yesterday evening.

A lengthy resolution, drafted by Reeve Albert Heald, which requests the governments to accept full control of municipal relief, was unanimously adopted.

The resolution follows:

"Whereas we have been notified that for the month of June the Dominion Government will only repay 20 per cent of moneys expended on relief for married persons, instead of 33 1-3 per cent as heretofore, and 10 per cent for the month of July instead of 33 1-3 per cent as heretofore.

"And whereas municipalities may appeal against this ruling and if it is proved to the satisfaction of the government that their financial condition warrants this they may receive assistance above the amount as set out,

NON-TAX-PAYING LANDS

"And whereas this municipality has been driven to the necessity of passing a by-law for the purpose of raising $30,000 for current expenditure,

"And whereas a very large portion of the municipality, being government-owned produces no taxes and service maintained on such government property is for the benefit of Canada as a whole and necessary services such as roads, sidewalks, schools, etc., are maintained at the sole expense of the municipal taxpayers, although enjoyed by government army and navy ratings,

"And whereas there are beer parlors and a bottle store in Esquimalt from which the provincial government draws considerable revenue, of which the municipality receives no portion.

"Therefore be it resolved that this council herewith petition the Dominion and provincial governments to assume the full cost of unemployment relief on a fifty-fifty basis, and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Hon. R. H. Pooley and our member, C. H. Dickie, urging them to give full support to this request."

The reeve stated that special permission could be granted any municipality desiring greater assistance than provided in the new agreement and he felt that application for such additional assistance should be made by the municipality.

SEEK REFUND

Esquimalt will also ask federal authorities for a refund of one-third of the cost of unemployment relief for single men during January and February of this year.

The reeve pointed out that a verbal agreement had been made with John Day, relief officer for the Fordham Commission, to have the Dominion Government assume full responsibility of single men's relief during these two months.

The municipality had, however, paid one-third of this cost for the two months and in view of this fact, he felt that a refund was due. A resolution requesting the refunding of the money was fully supported and a copy will be sent to Colonel Dennis, chairman of the relief commission.

SURPLUS SET AT $22,406.21

The report of the city auditors on the financial statement for the year 1932 was filed yesterday afternoon with the City Council.

Accompanying the audit was a statement by the city comptroller, D. A. Macdonald, showing that the actual surplus on 1932 operations was $22,406.21, which was applied on reduction of the 1933 tax levy.

DAIRYMEN TO LEAVE CITY

Milk By-law Forces Owners Of More Than Two Cows Outside

Council Asked For Extension Of Time to Aid Some Dairymen

Regulations under the city milk by-law which prohibit keeping of more than two cows in one stable within the city limits, will become effective on July 1. A number of establishments are affected, and yesterday afternoon the City Council had before it a petition from A. Lambrick, asking for an extension of time for himself and fifteen other dairymen.

"Several of the dairymen have made provision to move out of the city, but owing to the depression and present low price of milk they are unable to provide the money for building stables immediately," he stated.

His request was referred to the health committee.

The by-law under which the regulation becomes operative was passed nearly two years ago and warning was then given that compliance must be made by July 1 of this year.

SEES MARKET FOR FRUIT

Montreal, June 13 (Canadian Press).—D. McNair of the Associated Fruit Growers of Vernon, B.C., arrived in Montreal from Southampton to-day aboard the liner Alaunia. He expressed enthusiasm regarding the market for British Columbia fruit in Great Britain.

FANCIFUL FABLES

BILL ATKINSON, THROUGH WITH POLITICS, HAPPY AS AUCTIONEER AGAIN

His flutter in politics ended when he recently retired from the office of Minister of Agriculture, William Atkinson is back at Chilliwack, in the auctioneering business again and happy. The political episode in his life was all a mistake, he says. He did not like controlling a $500,000 budget and it worried him the way persons dipped into the funds for trips and other things He says it would have killed him to remain. He thinks Premier Tolmie should retire, like he did.

This is indicated by a recent interview he gave as he returned to Chilliwack, bought back his auctioneer's business and expanded on things in general in the cattle sales barn.

The interview, as written by George Murray in The Vancouver Province follows:

Why did Hon. William Atkinson, Minister of Agriculture in the Tolmie government, quit?

The question has been asked repeatedly since the minister retired on June 1. It was answered specifically by Mr. Atkinson to friends who welcomed him back to his auctioneer's stand at Chilliwack this week after his four and a half years' absence.

"I pulled out because if I had remained it would have killed me," said the man who threw up a $7,500 a year salary as a minister of the crown and control over a budget of $500,000 a year.

"My health was going rapidly. I was not trained for the work. I did not like the political atmosphere. I could not do favors for hordes of persons who were always nagging me and asking for things I couldn't conscientiously do for them. I am no politician. I have found that out. I will never run for parliament again."

Thus did Billy Atkinson set forth his reasons for getting out—plain, soft-spoken Billy, who in the forty-five years of active life at Chilliwack made friends with everyone; Billy, who is and was a good neighbor, a good citizen, the soul of honesty.

TOO MUCH MONEY

Billy Atkinson, the auctioneer, had been used to handling comparatively small deals. Often in selling household goods he would strive for the extra five cents. He has even held out for the extra penny. That was what made him Chilliwack's biggest and best auctioneer before he went into politics.

He was supreme in his business at that time. Now there are five auctioneers in Chilliwack, and Billy, at sixty-five, must go back and again win a place against them.

Billy Atkinson, used to the small stuff, suddenly found himself with control of the department of agriculture and a budget of half a million dollars.

TOO MUCH MONEY

WILLIAM ATKINSON

former Minister of Agriculture, who got tired looking after $500,000 a year and is now back at his old job of "How much am I bid?"

"It was too darned much money to spend," he said in recalling his Victoria experience. "It hurt me to see it go. And those poor farmers around Chilliwack paying such high taxes. People going on trips at government expense and everyone coming in for a cash allowance of some kind. I worried about it day and night. And when the other ministers came in and said they were short of money in their votes and wanted to dip into my department for a few hundred for this or that, I simply said to them, 'Go ahead, we don't need it as bad as you.'"

"I like country life," said Billy, "and Victoria was too much to suit me. Darn it all, I was never more than half a mile from a cow's tail in my life. And that society stuff, being dressed up all the time and all that—well, it got my nerves after a while."

"Well, how does Dr. Tolmie stand it?" an old neighbor asked during the Jersey field day at Chilliwack.

"Dr. Tolmie can't stand it any better than I did. His health has been ruined by it; and his doctor tells him that he will never go through another election unless he improves," was the reply.

"Well, how did John Oliver stand it, then?" asked another farmer.

"Ha," smiled Billy quietly, "Old Jawn didn't stand it—as you may have read in the papers. He would have lived much longer if he had never seen Victoria. They wore old Jawn to a frazzle, what with the P.G.E. and everything."

START 'EM YOUNG

"My idea," said Billy Atkinson, "of this here political stuff is this: You should catch 'em young and train 'em for it. Here I am at sixty-five. I get dragged into politics and made a minister. I'm too old at that time to learn new tricks.

"I go over there and first thing I look across at Duff Pattullo, a darn smart fellow with a quick way of going after you if you give him an opening. There he is; been at it all his life. He just loves politics. And I come in and what a mess he makes of me in debate.

"He gets the better of me just as I would be the better of him if it came to sizing up a critter. Why, I was first secretary of the B.C. Guernsey Breeders' Association. I'll bet Duff or Pat Maitland couldn't tell you whether a cow was a Guernsey or a Hereford — or whether it was even a cow at all. But they are good in their own lines because they started in young at it."

Mr. Atkinson's first task upon getting back to Chilliwack this week was to walk up to Jack Thompson, the auctioneer who bought him out four and a half years ago and say, "Look here, Jack, I want the old sale barn back and the yard. And how much will you take."

It has been no bonanza for redfaced Jack Thompson, so he quickly relinquished to Billy.

Then Billy looked over the city directory and found that a new auctioneer who started since Billy went to Victoria is John Wheeler. John has been mentioned as a possible C.C.F. candidate in the Chilliwack district against Uncle Dodsley Barrow.

"Well, if John takes up that stuff, I ain't going to have much opposition there," was Billy's only comment. "Politics will sure cook any man's goose."

AMONG FAMOUS SPEECHES

Famous among the public speeches made by Billy while in public life was one at a dinner given by the breeders of a certain species of purebred dairy cow. At the head table were men who had spent a lifetime breeding this kind of dairy animal. Some had fortunes invested in the cattle. Most of the persons present were enthusiastic supporters of the breed. Hon. William Atkinson was called upon for a speech. After a few rambling remarks, he proceeded to put his foot in it.

"Trouble with your breed of cows is," he said, "they are too confounded hard to milk. If you could train them so that a man could milk one of them without pulling his arms off, they might be some good."

Billy could never understand why his speech was not well received.

LIKES THE COUNTRY

"No, I leave the political field with only one regret," said Billy Atkinson, "and that is that I could not have done more for the people. I liked the men I met. The newspaper men were awful decent to me.

"Dr. Tolmie I have known man and boy, and I like him better every year. But he should be out of it, for his own good. I even like the Labor fellows and the Liberals and I wish them all the best in the world. But for me—I like the country life best. Come down to the sales barn any time and see me."

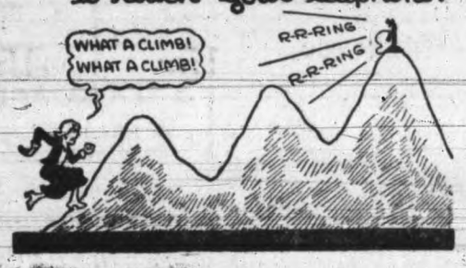
Sinking Fund Bonds Secured

An exchange of nearly $90,000 worth of C.N.O.R. stock for City of Victoria bonds, to be put in the sinking funds was authorized by the City Council yesterday afternoon.

The exchange was in lots of £8,000 and £10,000, in one case the city getting Victoria debentures maturing in 1962 and in the other, 1958. The C.N.O.R. stock matures in 1961.

Four purchases of Victoria bonds for sinking funds were also authorized. One $3,000 block, maturing in 1938, was bought at a price to yield 6 per cent, and a third block maturing in next year at a figure to yield 6.50 per cent, an da third block maturing in 1945 at a price yielding 6.20 per cent.

Do you climb mountains to reach your telephone?



AFTER rushing from various parts of the house to answer the one telephone, Mrs. Weary feels as though she's been spending the day climbing mountains. The telephone is on the main floor. It seems that it always rings when she's down in the basement or up on the second floor. No wonder she's tired.

One extension telephone or more in the house would make life so much easier for mother.

Business Women Hear Report of Everett Meeting

An interesting account of the Washington State Federation meeting held recently at Everett was given at the supper meeting of the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club in the Y.W.C.A. yesterday evening. Miss Clay, the president, presided. Mrs. M. Hall was the speaker and Mrs. Helen Gregory MacGill of Vancouver was a guest for the occasion, and told the gathering briefly of the work of the Minimum Wage Board.

Mrs. M. Hall gave an interesting resume of the proceedings of the state convention of the Washington clubs held at Everett. She recalled the fine address given by Miss Charl Williams on the responsibility of the business and professional woman towards education at the dinner held under the auspices of the Everett Club.

Mrs. Hall summed up her impressions of the gathering under three headings: First, the intense virility of the women, who numbered between 200 and 300; second, the tremendous desire for a realization that there was no difference in the ultimate aims of the business women in Canada and the United States, which manifested itself as a potential force of tremendous power; third, an impression of great enthusiasm, an effect of whole-hearted intentness on the serious things, and the ability to assume a whole-hearted light-heartedness when the occasion warranted it.

The gathering adjourned shortly before 8 o'clock in order to enable the members to attend the Minimum Wage Board hearing at the Parliament Buildings.

CHERRIES ARE DELICIOUS IN A VARIETY OF DESSERTS

By SISTER MARY

"Billy Boy" made cherry pie famous long ago and a fresh cherry pie made of perfect, tart fruit, is deservedly popular. But there are innumerable puddings and concoctions of modern invention that are equally delectable.

The big sweet cherries are inviting served fresh and whole. There are several cherry salads that are delicious and colorful. One salad uses the juice of red cherries with granulated gelatin for the foundation and sprinkles large white cherries, which have been stoned, of course, through the mold. Add chopped nuts to the salad dressing used with the salad.

Cherry puddings are innumerable. Boiled cherry pudding was a favorite dish for farm hands when cherry pie palled. Eaten with sugar and cream it was almost a full meal in itself.

Cherry shortcake is made just like strawberry shortcake, using a baking powder biscuit dough. Cherry ice and sherbet are alluring hot weather desserts. Cherry ice has a distinctive flavor and if made with bright red fruit has a beautiful color.

CHERRY ICE.

Two teaspoons granulated gelatin, 2 tablespoons cold water, 1 cup boiling water, 4 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 cup cherry juice, 1 cup sugar.

Heat one quart of fresh cherries and strain off juice. Soften gelantin in cold water for five minutes and dissolve in boiling water. Add lemon juice, cherry juice and sugar. Cool and turn into freezer and freeze until firm. Use four parts ice to one part ice cream salt for the freezing mixture.

CHERRY PARFAIT

This rich, delicious frozen dessert can be frozen in a mechanical refrigerator or packed in ice and salt and frozen without stirring.

One cup pitted cherries, 1½ cups sugar, 4 lemons, 2 oranges, 2 teaspoons granulated gelatin, 3 cups whipping cream, ½ cup boling water, 2 tablespoons cold water.

Add bailing water to sugar and make syrup. Add cherries and remove at once from the fire. Let stand until cool. Soften gelatin in cold water and dissolve over boiling water. Add to cherry mixture with juice of oranges and lemons. When cold add cream whipped until firm. Turn into mold and freeze. Use eight parts ice to one part ice cream salt for the freezing mixture.

To-Morrows Menu

Breakfast: Cereal with strawberries, cream, spinach with poached egg on toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon: Baked timbale of carrots, graham bread and butter sandwiches, hearts of lettuce, cherry tapioca and pudding, milk tea.

Dinner: Baked stuffed haddock, tomato sauce, potatoes with parsley butter, creamed chard, cottage cheese and beet salad, cherry ice, sponge cake, milk, coffee.

At their meeting held yesterday afternoon in the Municipal headquarters, Union Building, a very attractive programme was planned by the members, including fancy dances by pupils of Miss Violet Powkes and folk dancing by children from Lampson Street School, winners of the trophy in their division at the Victoria Musical Festival. Tea-cup reading and palmistry will also be featured.

Mrs. F. R. Wright was appointed general convener. Other conveners named were: Afternoon tea, Mrs. J. T. Jones; programme, Mrs. J. A. P. Crompton and Mrs. Brown; home cooking, Mrs. W. Booth; flowers and vegetables, Mrs. G. P. Clarke; housie-housie, Mrs. J. Quinn, and candy, Mrs. Horsgood.

An appeal from the Municipal organizing secretary to work for a larger membership was met by the suggestion that all should endeavor to introduce a new member at the September meeting. Mrs. L. Burnett was proposed and accepted for membership. Mrs. W. H. Booth will convene tagging for Alexandra Rose Day, June 24.

Mrs. R. P. Matheson gave a report of the very successful Girl Guide garden party held Saturday. Mrs. Wright and Mrs. A. A. Warder, who had attended, expressed appreciation of the very enjoyable programme provided.

Mrs. Matheson also reported on the good progress made by Esquimalt Guides and Brownies. At the request of Mrs. Sills, captain, a demonstration of the use of fire extinguishers was kindly given to the guide company by the local firemen.

A list of articles collected by members to be sent to a family in the Peace River district was given by Mrs. Booth who will send off the parcel.

Mrs. Withers reported on the recent inspection of the Naval Cadets by Admiral Story. As educational secretary Mrs. Matheson told of the good work of the I.O.D.E. bursary holder in Esquimalt, who has just passed through college very creditably. A short essay on impressions of a first year in college, written by this young student, was read and received with appreciation by the members.

The next meeting of the chapter will be held on the second Monday in September.

uit Canneries Ask For Reduction In Minimum Wage For Women Workers

ich Interests and Fruit Growers Testify at Board aring As To Difficulties Facing Loganberry Industry; Would Pay More To Growers If Minimum age Reduced to Twenty Cents An Hour.

ocal canning interests joined forces with Saanich fruit growers yesy in presenting a plea to the Women's Minimum Wage Board, in n at the Parliament Buildings, for a temporary reduction of the set out by the Minimum Wage Act for girls and women employed in ruit and vegetable industry. The Act prescribes that thirty cents an be paid for experienced workers, but as a temporary emergency ure the board last year reduced the minimum wage to twenty-seven an hour, and the local canners seek a further reduction to twenty an hour for female workers in order to pay the grower more and re the carrying on of the canneries.

sessions were held both afterand evening, with Adam Bell, airman, and Mrs. Helen Gregory l and Herbert G. Geddes cong the board. In addition to entatives of the various indusnd employees concerned, delegafrom the Business and Profes- Women's Club, the Local Coun- Women, Women's Institutes and organizations followed the progs with interest.

reply to a question from Mr. s of the board, Mr. Twining add that wages to workers in Oreand Washington, the chief comrs in the loganberry market, were equal to those paid in British abia. But the growers in those only received 2½ cents a d for the fruit as against 3⅔ paid a pound to growers in province, he pointed out.

ot. E. H. Livesay of the Saanich -growers asked what would happ- f the cannery were unable to pay rowers an amount sufficient to them for the labor expended in ng the product.

Twining replied that if the price to drop lower than it is at preshe growers would be unable to up their crops, and it was to keep up these crops and thus up the industry that the canwas endeavoring to carry on and e same time keep the British marn the face of strenuous competi-

UM COMPANY

Alexander of the Holsum Pack- Company pointed out that the s of cans and other materials, n are made in the United States, higher here owing to the Canadian , thus placing the Canadian at ther disadvantage in competition the American canners.

serving that the Holsum cannery not operated for two years, and resent could not operate without g money, Mr. Alexander stated the margin between profit and was so small that the cost of labor d be a big factor in deciding whethe cannery would reopen this

EASTERN COMPETITION

C. C. Cochrane of the Sidney cannery pointed out that in the domestic market the higher wage rate here placed the canners at a disadvantage in the eastern Canadian market. The grower was the one who bore the brunt of the additional cost entailed, and "he is pretty hard hit."

In answer to a question from Mr. Geddes as to whether the Doukhobor competition in the jam-making industry was a serious factor, Mr. Alexander said it was negligible compared to the eastern competition. The lower eastern wage rate, combined with the greater volume was a hard combination to fight in the market he admitted.

About 90 per cent of the wages in the Ontario fruit-growing industry was at the eighteen-cent rate, claimed Mr. Alexander, as against the twenty-seven-cent emergency rate allowed by the B.C. board last year.

CHAIRMAN'S QUESTION

"Why should the proportionately small labor cost, about 15 per cent of the total cost, be such a big factor? It is apparent that there is a big spread between the cost of production and cost to the consumer, so someone is getting a big rake-off," said Mr. Bell. "It seems that an undue stress is laid upon the high cost of labor."

Mr. Alexander admitted that the various phases of realization, such as materials, brokerage costs, fruit rates, and other overhead charges, swallowed up a big percentage of the cost. But unless the canners got some slight investment for their money they would be forced to close down and labor would be the first to suffer, he argued. All that the canners were asking was for temporary assistance in the way of a lower wage rate, such as twenty cents an hour, to tide them over a difficult period.

WORKERS AND PROFITS

"If there is a profit next year, would these workers share in the profits?" asked Mrs. MacGill.

"They have no investment at stake," he replied.

"They have their health and their livelihood," commented Mrs. MacGill.

Mr. Alexander replied that he was not advocating that labor should be ground down; he was merely asking for the temporary lowering of the minimum wage, in order to safeguard the industry and ensure employment for the workers.

"It is a little hard to expect the girls to pay your taxes, your bank interest, your advertising, in fact all your overhead," Mrs. MacGill observed.

EMPLOYEES' VIEWS

One of the employees present remarked that she had worked with a number of the employers and had found them fair. But if the lowering of the present rate from twenty-seven cents to twenty-five cents for skilled workers and twenty cents for unskilled workers meant the keeping open of the canneries and the assurance of work for both growers and workers, she thought it better to take the lower wage. Other employees concurred in this statement.

Mr. Twining pointed out that 500 growers in Saanich were awaiting the decision of the board, to which Mr. Bell countered that about 18,000 workers were also awaiting the decision anxiously.

Mrs. MacGill reminded the canners that the minimum wage was set as a compromise with the cost of living; if the wages of girls were brought down below the low average on which it was based, then the difference would fall on the taxpayers, who would have to assume the care of the girls, she claimed.

"But if the canneries shut down and there are no jobs, the taxpayers will have to keep the girls, anyway. And unless the industries are helped out, they will have to close down," reiterated Mr. Alexander.

A grower's wife stated that last year the pay for their produce was so low that she had to go to the cannery to work to enable them to pay their taxes, and she voiced her appreciation of the way in which Mr. Twining and other Saanich canners had come to the assistance of the growers' families.

COLD STORAGE FAILURE

Following a question from Miss Margaret Clay which elicited the information that the fruit and canning industry was only of short seasonal duration, Mr. Twining pointed out that cold storage processes had proved a failure in most instances in this province, the only process proving successful being too expensive to compete in the market under present conditions.

In reference to the "public housekeeping" section, Mr. Bell reminded the gathering that this included the work of waitresses, attendants, housekeepers, janitresses, cooks, and kitchen help in restaurants, hotels, tea-rooms, ice-cream parlors, light-lunch stands, and other places where food is cooked, prepared, and served for which a charge is made; and the work of chambermaids, in hotels, lodging houses, and apartments where lodging is furnished, whether or not such establishments are operated independently or in connection with any other business; and the work of all female elevator operators. It did not include domestic service, which does not come under the jurisdiction of the act.

"That explains why they can get girls to work for $5 per month," commented a woman in the audience.

Mrs. C. C. Spofford, president of the Local Council of Women, asked questions as to living conditions under the public housekeeping section and its effect on the wages stipulated by the board.

LAUNDRIES SATISFIED

Employers and employees were both satisfied with the prevailing wage rate set forth by the Minimum Wage Board in the laundry, cleaning and dyeing industries, testified H. R. Savage of the Standard Steam Laundry and C. A. Jones of the Economy Steam Laundry, in reply to a question from the chairman of the board. Mr. Jones said his firm would not want to see the wage lowered.

REDUCTION OPPOSED

Mrs. J. L. White, representing the Victoria Women's Institute and Local Council, opposed any reduction in the minimum wage on the ground that the rate was based on a living wage, and present conditions did not justify a reduction below that computed living wage standard.

Miss Clay, observing that the loganberry market and its uncertain condition was being used as a screen by the grower to enforce a lower wage on the worker, took issue with the claim that the canner was the only one with an investment at stake. The health and interest invested by the worker in his or her job she looked upon as a capital investment, which as such should be safeguarded.

Mr. Bell explained that criticisms were sometimes directed at the mercantile industry, which covers stores of all kinds, owing to a misunderstanding of the act. Under this section a minimum wage of $12.75 for a forty-eight-hour period is set, but under the present conditions employers, in order to retain their staffs at the usual number, are working their employees part time only and paying them at the minimum hourly rate of 26 9-16 cents as allowed under the act. Inexperienced workers were paid at varying rates.

OVERTIME IN STORES

Mrs. L. Powers asked the board if its ruling covered the case of girls in stores who worked overtime at holiday time, such as before Christmas. Mr. Bell replied that in every case the store has to secure permission to work employees overtime and where the employees work more than the forty-eight-hour limit such employees must be paid at overtime rates for the excess hours. Mercantile establishments failing to do so were brought to task by the board and when the complaint was proved the employer was made to conform to the regulations, he stated. In 1932 the board collected $2,800 due to girls who had been underpaid. Mr. Bell reported, as evidence of the board's desire to ensure the enforcement of the act.

He also reminded the gathering that anyone had the right to lay a complaint in civil action in the courts concerning any case of underpayment of minimum wage, or to bring such case before the board.

Employers should also realize that a mutual contract made with an employee to evade the law by contracting to pay and to receive a lower wage than called for under the act does not protect the employer from civil action or action by the Minimum Wage Board in the event of a complaint being laid.

A statement by Mrs. M. Hall to the effect that the "law was made for the big guns" and that a girl or woman employee in the mercantile industry had little chance of redress under the act was challenged by the chairman. Mrs. Hall declared that girls giving information to the board were discriminated against by their employers, losing their jobs, but Mr. Bell asserted that a great many cases had been adjusted by the board, the girls receiving sums due them, yet in the majority of cases the employees were still holding the same jobs.

BOARD SUPPORTED

Mrs. MacGill pointed out that on the whole the board in British Columbia had been very fortunate in having the support of the employers as well as of organized labor in trying to maintain the wage, a condition which did not exist in some other places outside British Columbia.

A woman spectator suggested the regulations governing the forty-eight-hour week be changed to permit of a shorter period, thus distributing work over a greater number, as a means of meeting present conditions.

Under the manufacturing section, a representative of the Turner-Beeton Company asked for an extension of the learning period under schedule 2 from four months to six months, thus giving a period of eighteen months' training in all, as called for in schedule 3.

WHY CHILDREN DO NOT SLEEP

American Medical Association Makes Study of Causes of Wakefulness

By F. B. Colton, Associated Press Science Writer

Milwaukee, June 13.—Eating a big Thanksgiving dinner, scientists have found, not only gives little Johnnie bad dreams, but makes him toss about in his sleep 100 per cent more than usual.

This is one of the results of a new study of children's sleep exhibited at the eighty-fourth annual meeting of the American Medical Association, opened here to-day.

The sleep study, made by Dr. Glennville Giddings of Emory University, Atlanta, Ga., shows that contrary to a well-established belief, taking a warm bath before going to bed is not an aid to restful sleep, and that children who ate all they wanted of a plain but heavy meal before retiring, moved about approximately 105 times during nine hours' sleep. Those who partook of an ordinary meal moved only fifty to fifty-three times.

Other discoveries of Dr Giddings:

New toys given to children about three in the afternoon produced enough excitement to disturb their sleep considerably during the following night.

Warm milk taken before retiring made forty-two per cent of the children tested sleep with less movement than before.

Trousseau Tea Proves Delightful Attraction

June Bride and Her Attendants In Novel Fashion Show Yesterday

Graceful Mannequins Parade Before Interested Crowd At Hudson's Bay

All the fascination attached to the name "bride" featured the June bride's "trousseau tea" held in the Victorian Restaurant at the Hudson's Bay Store yesterday, and the spacious room was filled to capacity for both showings.

CHARMING BRIDE

Miss Phyllis Taylor made a charming "bride" in an exquisite gown of angel-skin lace with yoke of mousselaine de soie. Her elaborate veil fell in a white mist from a dainty cap of imported lace caught with orange blossom and finished with a flaired nose veil of bride's veiling. She carried a white kid prayerbook with streamers of white ribbon, knotted with maidenhair fern and lilies of the valley. Her court train was carried by Miss Dorothy Graham and Miss Gladys Harrison as pages in black velvet and pink satin.

She was preceded by four bridesmaids, the matron of honor and tiny flower girl. As bridesmaids, Miss Carey, Miss Holms, Miss Pearson and Miss Pennock made a lovely picture in their pastel-colored frocks of organza, a very new cotton material, adapting all the lovely, billowy qualities of organdy, with an added fineness of texture. Pale green, rose petal pink, forget-me-not blue and maize, the bridesmaids' frocks showed a delightful variety of the 1933 mode—puff sleeves or ruffles giving shoulder width, necklines cut in a "V" at the back, a cape made of folds of organza, flowing sashes or bows. Miss Carey's picture hat of charmeuse straw was trimmed with imported French roses, and the other bridesmaids chose Roscella straw with floral or ribbon trimming.

MATRON-OF-HONOR

Mrs. Sara Battenbury, the matron-of-honor, appeared in a striking gown of green taffeta with leg-of-mutton sleeves and a high pleated ruche framing the face, in the Elizabethan style. Her hat of Porte Bonheur straw was caught up at the back with rosebuds.

Miss June Gibson in palest pink smocked crepe de Chine, wearing a wreath of rosebuds in her hair and carrying a festooned basket of sweet peas in pastel shades, made a dainty little flower girl.

The members of the bridal party carried colonial bouquets in harmonizing shades, supplied by Brown's Victoria Nurseries.

DAINTY TROUSSEAU

The June bride's negligee was of peach satin with cuffs, yoke and front panel of real Alencon lace, worn over "teddies" of pink satin and lace. She chose for her sport suit, fashionable blue linen on swagger lines with a white pique sport's hat.

For her evening frock, the June bride chose a delightful creation in white organza with a three-quarter length jacket in deep red faille with elbow puff sleeves and Schipparelli shoulders, the frock using a sash of the same material.

The June bride's going away costume consisted of a powder blue crepe dress with jabot of white organdy and real lace, under a grey dress coat with baby kid shoulder epaulettes and Ascot tie scarf. Her grey turban of Porte Bonheur straw was finished with a nose veil. Grey snake skin shoes, grey kid bag and gloves completed the costume. Her golf clubs and suit case were carried by the pages.

A duet tap dance by the pages, Miss Dorothy Graham and Miss Gladys Hamilton, pupils of Miss Violet Fowkes, was a pleasing interlude. Miss Grace Allen, L.A.B., was the pianist for the afternoon. The make-up was by Elizabeth Arden.

Jubilee Alumnae Present Bursary To Miss Hallas

Miss Mary Hallas, a graduate of the 1930 class of the Jubilee Hospital who is at present taking a year's post-graduate course in X-ray at the institution, was presented with the Alumnae bursary of $100 at the monthly meeting of the Jubilee Alumnae Association held at the nurses' home yesterday evening.

This is the third of the yearly bursaries presented by the association, and Mrs. W. A. Chambers of Vancouver, former president, made the presentation to Miss Hallas, the bursary being accompanied by a corsage bouquet of gladioli and sweet peas in mauve and gold, the Alumnae colors. Miss J. Moore, the president, also presented Mrs. Chambers with a corsage bouquet of sweet peas and carnations.

At the business meeting Miss Mitchell, nursing superintendent, invited the members to play tennis on the hospital courts. Miss C. Todd to be in charge of the arrangements.

The members voted a donation to the fund being raised by nurses throughout Canada to save McGill nursing school from being closed down. They also voted a donation to The Zinnia, the year book of the Jubilee Training School, which is to be published shortly.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

YOUNG MOTHER BEWILDERED BY FLOOD OF ADVICE

Not only in the matter of clothing for infants, but in many problems of care and feeding the mother must exercise her own judgment. To heed too many advisers is merely confusing and terrifying.

CLOTHES PROBLEM

Mrs. D. L. S. is being fretted by well-meaning relatives who are scattering advice. She says, "I expect to go quite far south in July where my first baby will be born. I have made sheer slips of batiste for night wear. I am told that even from birth, in that climate, a baby wears nothing but a diaper. Don't you think it might be cold by morning?

"What do you think of letting a baby 'cry it out'? We had a neighbor who did that and I can't see that her baby stopped being a cry baby any sooner than other children. Some nurses say not to let a baby cry for long up to six weeks of age. But what does one do after six weeks of age? Tell them to be good and obey mama?

"Should a baby be allowed to sleep by an open window? Should the diapers ever be changed after 10 at night? Would flannel diapers be too hot?"

SOME ATTENTION NECESSARY

If baby cries for long hours, it is your responsibility to find out what is wrong. With a small baby it is usually food. No modern mother picks up a baby and handles him so constantly that he becomes too spoiled to lie quietly without attention. But if he needs attention, give it to him. Just be sensible.

Woolen diapers used over cotton ones are suitable solely for winter wear. If the baby has two night feedings, change him each time. If he sleeps through the night, you can make him comfortable by changing without waking him.

When baby is first born he has been accustomed to a body temperature of 98 degrees. Heat is seldom bothersome, and I doubt very much if the garments you have planned would be too hot. If you would like a leaflet suggesting good books on baby care, please send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope for "New and Old Reference Books." Address your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred, in care of the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper.

To-morrow: "Mothers Too Eager to Push Baby Along."

TREATY GUARDS MIGRATING BIRDS

Because the birds of North America migrate from one country to another and are natives of no one country, there exists a migatory bird treaty between the United States and Canada to the effect that all game birds on the continent that migrate are afforded equal protection in both countries, the American Humane Education Society points out in a recent bulletin.

"The Sealed Trunk"

By HENRY KITCHELL WEBSTER

—Copyright

"I told you that myself this noon," Claire broke in. "What's that got to do with it?"

"Night before last, at the Alhambra, when Max Lewis told you that I was the girl all right because my first name was Rhoda, you told him to find out where I lived."

"I told you that myself this noon," Claire broke in. "What's that got to do with it?"

"And you told him," Rhoda went on, "not to waste any time about it, because I might see Mr. Forster's advertisement any day and answer it." Rhoda could see that this bit of information startled her and she went on a little more confidently. "He did find out where I lived by going home that night with Babe, and he found out that the studio was empty all day because she told him we both worked and the other girls were away. He tried to find out whether my name wasn't Rhoda McFarland, but she did not tell him. Yesterday afternoon the studio was broken into. The burglar didn't find any papers, because he didn't know where to look. But he did find $300 of mine, and he took that. To-day," Rhoda went on, "after I'd told you that my father's papers were in the trunk and sealed up, and after you'd gone out and telephoned . . . ."

"You think Max went and got the trunk, do you, and that he brought it here?"

"Yes," Rhoda said. "And I think he's in that alcove with it now."

The woman gave a vicious laugh. "All right," she said, "go and see for yourself. If you can find Max or the trunk, you're welcome to both of them. Go and look, and then get out. I've been insulted about long enough."

This wasn't the way Rhoda had expected the scene to work out. She was assailed by a sudden doubt that the trunk might not be in the alcove after all, nor Max either. She'd be in a hideously uncomfortable position if she went and looked and nothing was there. Yet she couldn't go away without looking. This might be nothing but a magnificent bluff by Claire.

"Thank you," she said. "I will go and look." But it took all the resolution she had to set her legs in motion down the room.

The alcove contained a bed, a tawdry, oriental-looking affair, too low for the trunk to be under, a couple of chairs and a dressing table, but no trunk, no litter of papers, and no Max.

"Go as far as you like," said Claire, who had followed her. "Perhaps they are hidden in my closet, or in the bathroom."

Rhoda was on the point of giving it up. But the bathroom door stood ajar and Rhoda's glance had gone that way as Claire finished speaking. It looked like a rather large room for its purpose. More than just a bathroom. She'd take a look, anyhow, and make sure. She was in the act of going in, Claire was at her elbow, when the sharp jingle of a bell somewhere in the apartment startled them both. That is to say, it startled Rhoda; it paralyzed Claire. Her hard blue eyes seemed to bulge right out of her head. But that lasted only an instant. With a convulsive movement Claire gave her a tremendous push that sent her staggering clear across the tiled floor to the farther wall, whipped the key out of the inner face of the door, slammed the door, and locked her in. The bell gave a second peal just as the bolt clicked home.

She heard Claire open the door—the door she had come in by. Rhoda didn't doubt; there was a betraying creak to one of its hinges—but there was no sound of the heavy footsteps on the stairs that would have heralded the lugging in of her trunk. Claire must have thought it was the trunk coming, though, or she wouldn't have locked her up in the bathroom. The silence, which had lasted half a dozen seconds, perhaps, was again broken by the ring of the bell, persistent this time and prolonged. It wasn't the doorbell at all; it was the telephone.

Rhoda heard the door slam shut and the rush of Claire's feet across the room. It was odd that in her own flat she should have mistaken the bell. She had been expecting the doorbell, that was why.

The instrument was just around the corner of the alcove. Claire said, "Hello?" and then a moment later, "Yes. Who is this? What is it you want?"

An unfamiliar voice, evidently asking if this was Miss Claire Cleveland.

The stranger must have said his say pretty concisely, for after quite a short pause Claire cried out in a tone of the liveliest astonishment, "What's that? What are you talking about? Who are you, anyway?" And again, after listening a little longer, "Say, are you trying to be funny?"

Apparently, though, it wasn't a joke. Certainly not from Claire's point of view. For the next time she spoke her voice was raucous with anger, and what she said a mere incoherent jumble of uncompleted questions.

Right in the middle of this the person on the other end of the line must have hung up. There was a silence; a dead unbroken silence. The woman couldn't still be standing there before the telephone, yet Rhoda hadn't heard her move away. When it had lasted as long as she could endure it she began pounding on the door.

To her surprise Claire came at once and unlocked it. She herself pulled it open and they stood face to face. Whatever remonstrances Rhoda meant to make were silenced by the woman's look. She looked as if she'd forgotten that Rhoda was there; forgotten what she'd come for; forgotten almost who she was. She looked at her blankly for a moment and then with a kind of terrifying intentness, as if trying to decide whether she had, could possibly have, any connection with or knowledge of that mysterious message over the telephone.

Evidently her conclusion was negative, for with a faint shrug she turned away. "You can come out now," she said. "If you like . And, go! Go home! There's nothing here that's any business of yours. And God knows I don't want to keep you here."

Rhoda didn't hesitate. The smoldering fury in the woman was not only formidable, it constituted a sort of guarantee of the truth of what she said. Rhoda went, with the best appearance of dignity she could muster. "Drive away from here," she said to the chauffeur, "but as slowly as you can, and not very far. I want to think."

Before they'd gone half a block her thoughts resulted in a question. "Could you follow anybody?" she asked.

"I could until it got too dark, unless they had too fast a car for me. Do you want to follow somebody?"

"I think," Rhoda said, "that the woman I want to see is coming out in a few minutes, and I want to know where she goes."

"Well," he said, "that's easy. I'll wait here with my flag up. You go back and slip into one of the side vestibules in this flat building where you can keep an eye on her door. She may order a taxi by telephone, or she may walk down here and pick one up."

Claire, it appeared, wasn't in a hurry. Time went pretty slowly for Rhoda, who felt like a sneak thief waiting in that vestibule, and she was on the point of giving it up when she saw another taxi drive up to Claire's door. But after that things happened swiftly.

Claire came down almost at once, got into her taxi, drove to the boulevard and turned south, down town. In another minute Rhoda, in her own taxi, was following at a safe distance. It was almost too easy to be exciting. Down the boulevard to the parkway, and then branching to the right down the park's western boundary, she saw the other taxi stop and Claire get out at the Worcester hotel.

"All right," Rhoda said to the chauffeur of her taxi. "You can stop here, too. And this time you needn't wait."

Uncle Wiggily and Billie's Mistake

By HOWARD R. GARIS

After Uncle Wiggily had made a popgun that shot a cork, as I told you in the story last night, the rabbit gentleman heard a noise in the bushes near where he had been gathering elderberries. Nurse Jane had promised Mr. Longears an elderberry pie if he would gather the berries.

Besides picking the berries from the elder bush, the bunny uncle had also made the popgun from a hollow stick off the same bush.

"And maybe it's a good thing I have my popgun," said Uncle Wiggily as he looked at a tall, waving clump of grass near which he had heard the noise. "I think this must be one of the Bad Chaps."

Mr. Longears loaded his popgun with the cork. Then he took careful aim at the bush and loudly shouted:

"Fire!"

At the same time he pushed on the stick plunger of his popgun. Out shot the cork, straight into the bush and, a moment later, a voice began to howl and bleat:

"Oh! Oh! Ouch! Wowch! Scouch!"

"My goodness! That's a funny way for a Bad Chap to howl!" said Uncle Wiggily as he put another cork in his popgun. "I never heard the Fox, the Wolf or the Bob Cat howl like that."

He aimed the popgun!

Mr. Longears was going to shoot his gun at the bush again when, all of a sudden, out came prancing Billie Wagtail, the boy goat.

"Don't shoot me any more! Don't shoot me any more!" bleated Billie.

"Oh, I'm so sorry!" said Uncle Wiggily. "Did I hit you"

"Yes, right on my nose!" said Billie and he held one hoof over the sore place.

"I thought you were a Bad Chap!" said the rabbit gentleman.

"But I'm not!" sobbed Billie and there were real tears in his eyes, for even something as light as a cork, hitting on a goat's nose, makes it sore. I mean it makes the nose sore.

"No, I can easily see you aren't a Bad Chap," spoke Uncle Wiggily. "And I'm very sorry I shot you, Billie. But why were you hiding in the bush there?"

"I wasn't hiding," bleated Billie, wagging his short, stumpy tail. "I was tossing my ball on the way to school and, all of a sudden I lost it."

"What's that?" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "Do you mean you lost the Hollow Stump School, Billie?"

"No such luck as that!" bleated the little goat. "I mean I lost my ball and I was looking for it in the bushes and you shot me."

"I am very sorry," said Uncle Wiggily, kindly. "And the least I can do, Billie, is to help you look for the lost ball."

This the rabbit gentleman did, but it wasn't to be found. Then, as Uncle Wiggily was in a hurry to take the elderberries to Nurse Jane so she could make a pie, and as he didn't want Billie to be late for school, Mr. Long ears said to the boy goat:

"Here, Billie, I'll give you this popgun to play with instead of your ball. Run along to school and when you come out you can have another look for the lost ball. Dry your tears and take my popgun."

"Oh, thank you," said Billie, drying his tears. "And could you give me some corks to shoot in my new popgun."

"Yes, I have a few corks," said Uncle Wiggily taking them from his pocket.

"Oh, what fun!" bleated Billie as he ran on to school with the popgun made from the elderberry branch. And as the boy goat ran away, Uncle Wiggily twinkled his pink nose and said:

"I forgot to tell Billie not to play with his popgun in school. But I don't believe he will do it. The Lady Mouse Teacher wouldn't like it and she might blame me. But I guess Billie will keep the popgun in his desk and only shoot corks at recess."

But Billie was so anxious to see how the popgun would shoot that he could not wait for recess. On reaching school Billie first put the popgun in his desk. Then, when the Kindergarten Class was singing a cute little song, Billie took the popgun out, put in a cork and he aimed the gun at Jackie Bow Wow. But right there Billie made a funny mistake which made Uncle Wiggily laugh. I shall tell you all about it to-morrow night when the story will be called Uncle Wiggily going hunting.

But please don't let the golf club play tennis with the moth ball or the door mat may jump over the fence to tickle the clothespost. And that, you know, would make the pussy cat laugh.

BOY LOSES LIFE

Calgary, June 13. (Canadian Press)—Seven-year-old Eugene Wymer was burned to death yesterday when a barn on the farm of D. J. Moore, near Okotoks, about twenty-three miles south of Calgary, caught fire. The boy was in the hay mow when the blaze, of unknown origin, spread. A four-year-old brother, also in the barn, escaped the flames.

Uncle Ray's Corner

Making a Rainbow

Before people knew much about the subject, they looked upon a rainbow as "a great mystery."

Newton using prism to separate colors in sunlight

It is easy to see why the coming of colors into the sky should puzzle those who were watching. They might look up and see a golden sun or a blue sky or grey clouds, or all three together—but what could produce a brilliant band of colors, including violet, blue, green, yellow, orange and red?

The golden sun supplied the colors! Sunlight has within itself all the colors of the rainbow!

Usually sunlight comes to us in complete form, and we may call it white or "yellowish-white"; but when it shines through rain, the rays may be divided in such manner as to form different colors.

If you like, you may make your own rainbow. On a bright day, point a garden hose upward, and send forth a spray of water. Turn your back to the sun, and let the water fall in front of you. If you adjust your hose so that the water comes out in a fine spray, and if you spread the spray by moving the nozzle a little, you should be able to produce a rainbow right above your yard. I have done that, and many others have done it; and I feel confident that after a trial or two you will succeed in doing it.

There is another way to make rainbow colors, and oddly enough this method does not require rain. History gives credit for its discovery to Isaac Newton, the famous English scientist, who was born in 1642.

Newton is known for his work on the theory of gravity; but he also made tests in other fields. One day he held a glass prism in such a way that sunlight would pass from one side to another. The result was that the rays were spread far apart and formed rainbow colors on the wall of the room in which he was standing!

Newton was not able to explain the event. He did not know what we know now—that light travels by means of waves, and that each color has its own wave length. Red has a longer wave than yellow, and yellow waves are longer than blue.

The prism most often used is composed of solid glass. It has three sides or faces, and each end is of triangle shape. Because of its form, it separates the longer light rays from the shorter ones and gives us a band of colors from sunlight. A small hole in a window shade may be used to let in sunlight when you make tests with a prism.

(For you scrapbook, science section.)

A diagram of the sun and planets appears in the leaflet, "Marvels of the Sky" which is sent without charge to readers who mail a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Uncle Ray in care of this newspaper.

COACH BUILDERS RUSHING WORK

Models in Contest Must be Finished by End of This Month

Two Silver Cups For Test Models in Victoria District; Want Notification

Young craftsmen of the Dominion—50,000 strong—began a period of intensive work this month, with the goal of university scholarships and free trips to the Century of Progress Exposition urging them on to finish construction of their miniature model Napoleonic coaches. In all centres of Canada, boys are poring over detail plans, using minute tools in expert craftsmanship and moulding elaborate and beautiful modern coaches into shape. They are members of the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild, competing in the second annual competition for awards totaling $35,000.

Guild membership in Canada this year has exceeded all expectations, according to R. S. McLaughlin, president of General Motors of Canada Limited, and president, also, of the Canadian section of the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild. A total enrolment three times as large as last year, he said, showed an increasing interest among the younger generation in the type of work that develops the skilled craftsman.

Fourteen Canadian boys, representing seven provincial districts, will make the journey to Chicago in August as guests of the guild. For building the best model coaches in their class, they will receive, in addition, cash awards of $100 each. Most coveted of all the awards, however, will be the two university scholarships, valued at $5,000 each, which go to the best Canadian boy craftsman in junior and senior age divisions.

Before joining the 122 guild members from the United States who will be at the Chicago World's Fair, the Canadian group will gather in Toronto for a two-day convention. It will be a week packed with interest and thrills and its lure should keep every guild member hard at his task to insure completion of a real winner within the allotted time. All models must be finished and delivered before midnight of June 30. Notification is being sent out from guild headquarters in Oshawa, telling each boy where and how to deliver his model.

LOCAL COMPETITION

All boys in Victoria who have entered the contest and will have their models completed in time, are asked to get in touch with Archie Wills at The Times office. Two large silver cups will be awarded for the best models in the Victoria division and arrangements will be made to have the judging undertaken as soon as information is secured of the number of models that will be finished.

PRESSES CASE OF APARTMENTS

Water Service Charge Still Under Consideration, Alderman Is Informed

Water service charges for apartment houses were again brought to the fore yesterday afternoon as a point of importance in connection with investigation of the city's water rates.

At the meeting of the City Council, Alderman Andrew McGavin charged that obstructions had been placed in his way in placing before the council a motion which would wipe out the extra service charges imposed on this class of property last year. He again made his motion, but after it was explained that the water committee is now dealing with the matter, he agreed to an amendment that the vote be delayed until after that committee had reported.

Alderman P. R. Brown resented the alderman's allegation about blocking the motion, pointing out that a revision of the rates was a very difficult matter, requiring careful consideration. He thought it would be unfair for Alderman McGavin to press for a vote at present as he, although in sympathy with some of the views of the apartment owners, would be forced to vote against it.

Alderman McGavin quoted figures showing how the large increase in rates had affected certain properties. He said this was one thing which helped to drive builders out of the city into the adjacent municipalities, pointing out that while new home building in Victoria last year was valued at only $101,000 for forty-one structures, in the municipalities, it had reached a total of $455,000 for 244 dwellings.

Alderman W. T. Todd joined in the discussion, asking for an early settlement. He knew of one case of an automobile camp proprietor who was affected, who had not paid his water bill for five months.

"Yes, and you probably know why it is not paid," said the Mayor. "It is because some aldermen on the council are supporting him in opposition to the charge."

Alderman McGavin denied there were "any strings attached" to his support of the apartment owners' requests.

STEEL SPAN FOR GORGE

Construction of More Substantial Structure Is Now Probable

Originally Planned Wooden Bridge Would Not Have Provided Boat Clearance

The possibility of the Gorge bridge being replaced with a steel arch instead of King truss wooden span was indicated yesterday when government officials laid before Saanich and Esquimalt plans to construct a bridge which would offer greater clearance for boats than the structure originally planned would have done.

It is understood the cost of the steel span would be in the neighborhood of $5,000, while the wooden one was expected to cost between $3,000 and $4,000.

The tentative proposals, it is understood, provide that the government erect the span and the municipalities of Esquimalt and Saanich, who are jointly responsible for the bridge, should construct the decking.

No intimation was received from municipal authorities that this agreement would prove satisfactory, although it was suggested that the steel psan would prove more suitable.

Pender Island

A large crowd enjoyed the fancy costume party sponsored by the Women's Institute in Port Washington Hall Wednesday evening. Costumes of the gay nineties were in evidence. A programme of songs, readings, and musical games took up the early part of the evening, after which refreshments were served, then dancing followed. Prizes for the best costumes were awarded to Miss Hilda Logan, Basil Phelps, Mrs. R. H. Auchterlonie and Trafford Jade. Those contributing to the programme were Mrs. H. McNeill, T. W. Fry, Miss Lorna Sutherland, Spencer Percival, J. S. Stigings and Mr. Bastedo, A. E. McLean and W. B. Johnston acting as accompanists.

Miss Verna Hand, Vancouver, is a guest of her sister, Miss Florence Hand.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Auchterlonie are spending a week with relatives in Victoria.

Miss Edith Bowerman is home from Victoria for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walton Bowerman, Hope Bay.

Miss Doreen McGregor, Victoria, and a party of friends are camping at the McGregor summer home at Browning Harbor.

Miss Ruth Menzies, Chilliwack, is spending her vacation with relatives on the island.

URGE SUPPORT OF INDUSTRIES

Red Cross Officials Seek Continuance of Work In City

Making First Appeal For Financial Aid Since Establishment Here

The Victoria city and district branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society is at the present time appealing to the public for funds to continue the operation of the local Red Cross Workshop, as their finances, after twelve years of successful operation have become depleted.

AIDS DISABLED MEN

"Every industry in this community is vital to the commercial welfare of the city. Every merchant is affected by the purchasing power, the payroll of the masses. The more industries that can be established and kept going the better will be the times," officials point out.

As is well known this institution is operated for the purpose of providing employment for those disabled ex-service men, who through their war disabilities are unable to earn a living in any ordinary way. Altogether ninety-three men have been assisted in employment, while an average of from 30 to 40 men have been kept going throughout. If it had not been for this shop these men would likely have been a complete charge on the community, whereas they have been enabled to keep their self-respect, face the world and pay their way.

There is not a merchant in this city who has not benefited through the operation of this shop, as an average of from $30,000 to $40,000 dollars has been disbursed annually. Its continuance vitally concerns the commercial welfare of the city.

FIRST APPEAL FOR AID

This is the first time since the inception of the shop that any appeal has been made for financial assistance, but the time has arrived when further funds must be obtained, as considering the nature of the employees the shop always operates at a loss.

The management of such an enterprise entails many difficulties, but the local Red Cross Workshop has become so established that the average citizen considers it just an ordinary business undertaking, as it has always given good workmanship, good service and full value for money expended. If it were forced to discontinue operations it would be sorely missed.

HOME GARDENS TO BE JUDGED

Horticultural Association to Again Conduct Competition For Amateur Gardeners

The Victoria Horticultural Society is again conducting the home garden competition which has been so popular during the last few years. This has been made possible by the interest and co-operation of the City Council.

The competition is not in any way restricted to members of the society, but is open to anyone residing within the two-and-one-half-mile circle. The main object of this competition is for educational purposes, with a view towards greater efficiency in the art of productive and decorative gardening, and the beautification of the city. The classes have been so divided that any size garden might be entered, the smaller gardens not being compelled to compete against the larger size gardens. In addition to the society's three challenge trophies, substantial cash prizes are being offered. All those who obtain 75 per cent of total points will receive awards of merit. A copy of the rules and score card can be obtained from the secretary, F. F. Boulter, 538 Obed Avenue, E 8490, to whom all entries must be made not later than July 11.

TRINIDAD TO BUY MORE FROM CANADA

Canadian Press

Port of Spain, Trinidad, June 13.—Increased preferences in the tariff on goods entering Trinidad and Tobago from Canada and other parts of the British Empire have just been enacted.

A list of articles hitherto on the free list is now made dutiable when coming from countries outside the empire.

The duties on milk, condensed or otherwise preserved, has been altered from 2½ per cent preferential and 12½ per cent general to 6d per 48 pounds preferential and 2s general. This change should benefit Canadian exporters, as Canada supplied £24,925 of the £153,761 worth imported last year.

SALT SPRING REALTY DEALS

Inspector Spiller, formerly of Prince Rupert has acquired the house and grounds at Vesuvius Bay, formerly owned by Major Richmond and recently in the occupation of Mr. and Mrs. Selby. The beauty and scenic attractions of the Gulf Islands are bringing constant newcomers.

Sixteenth Canadian Scottish—Norman Emslie 42, Desmond Crofton 35, Harry Nichol 35, Robert Akerman 34, Harry O'Flynn 24, Pierre Bion 19.

The Fulford Club won by 216 points against 189 for the Scottish.

The Gulf Islands golf championship was played on the Salt Spring Island golf course June 7 and 8. Prizes were presented by Mrs. W. E. Scott.

At the meeting of the Harbor House Tennis Club the following officers were elected: President, Captain F. H. Walter, R.N.; vice-president, Mrs. Desmond Crofton; secretary, Colin King; treasurer, Dr. R. OUT OUR WAY —By WILLIAMS with musical tone, vigor and expressiveness.

THE KING'S ENGLISH

I am sure it is not too much to hope that as the radio brings English-speaking peoples together there may be united efforts to preserve not only our dialects, so dear to the hearts of those who know them, but that standard of spoken English which is the King's English. The great difficulty of setting a standard has now disappeared, confusion of ideas is rapidly vanishing and thought is clarifying so that it is hardly prophetic to say that we are on the verge of a great change in the attitude of public opinion towards the value of speech training in education. There is no doubt that the oldest Art will be restored to its place not only as a subject of supreme practical value but as one of psychological importance.

This change will take place because through the medium of radio and the talking pictures the public constantly hear the best. When I consider how comparatively little I have been able to do for spoken English in seven years I feel grateful indeed for these modern inventions which emphasize the importance and beauty of good speech by making it possible not only to hear fine speakers any and every day, but even on rare occasions like to-day to hear the voice of the King in our own home.

COMING TO EMPIRE

For the tenement scenes of "Looking on the Bright Side," coming to the Empire Theatre Friday, the A.R.P. Studio built what is believed to be the biggest outdoor set ever constructed in England.

Five floors with outside stairways were built, and a special elevator was erected to carry the camera and crew up and down the side of the building in order to cover the action adequately.

Three hundred extras were employed for five consecutive nights on these scenes.

EMPIRE THEATRE

From the music which is played when the title, "A Night Like This," is first thrown upon the screen of the Empire Theatre emerges a voice—a voice full of the very spirit of fun—which gleefully murmurs, "It's Lynn and Walls! It's Lynn and Walls! It's Lynn and Walls!" Nothing could be more worth making a song about than the fact that "A Night Like This" once more introduces the combination of Ralph Lynn and Tom Walls—the inimitable pair who have set whole continents ringing with laughter; whose foolery has circled the world and left it happier; who are following Mr. Pickwick, Micawber and Sam Weller into the gallery of Britain's immortals.

DOMINION THEATRE

Joan Crawford and Gary Cooper are co-starred for the first time in "To-day We Live," now at the Dominion Theatre as a filmization of a new story by the noted writer, William Faulkner. The picture is said to give Miss Crawford brilliant opportunities as the young English girl who struggles desperately to win a chance for love amid the turmoil of the World War. The three men with whom her life is entangled are Cooper as the American aviator, Robert Young as the childhood sweetheart who wins her for a few brief days during the hysteria of life in a billet town, and Franchot Tone, the New York stage star, who makes his first film appearance in "To-day We Live" as Miss Crawford's brother.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Zane Grey's "Heritage of the Desert," done into movie form with a cast headed by Randolph Scott, Sally Blane and J. Farrell MacDonald, is showing at the Columbia Theatre.

The movie, directed by Henry Hathaway, follows the plot of the novel closely. Scott, as a young surveyor, is called by MacDonald to his ranch to check its boundaries accurately. David Landau, head of a band of cattle rustlers, attempts to prevent his reaching the ranch house alive, but fails.

Arriving there ultimately, Scott meets and falls in love with Miss Blane, daughter of MacDonald's dead partner. She is to marry MacDonald's son, but she is soon in love with Scott. The son, a weak character, borrows money from Landau to finance his sprees in town, and ultimately suffers death at his hands.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

In the language of the motion picture industry, "Carnival" at the Playhouse Theatre to-day, "has everything." This term is applied by theatre owners to those rare productions that combine all the essentials for good entertainment, together with well-known stars, strong supporting casts and good direction. There is melody, drama, comedy and song in "Carnival," and the picture moves at a wide and even sweep up to a climax which is terrific in its intensity. Matheson Lang, internationally famous on the talking stage, has the leading male part, while opposite him plays Dorothy Bouchier, a beautiful and accomplished actress who is being acclaimed as England's "first lady of the screen."

CAPITOL THEATRE

Miss Miriam Jordan wears a number of stunning gowns in her latest Fox Film production, "Dangerously Yours," now at the Capitol Theatre, in which Warner Baxter is starred. She plays the role of a girl detective who sets a trap for a suave society thief, played by Baxter.

Herbert Mundin, Florence Eldridge, Nella Walker, Florence Roberts, Claude Auer, Arthur Hoyt and Will Durkin also are prominent in the cast. Malcolm St. Clair is the director.

TUBERCULOSIS DANGER SEEN

Chemical Used For X-ray Pictures Spreads Disease, Says U.S. Doctor

Milwaukee, June 13.—A possible new danger in tuberculosis is injection of a chemical for making X-ray pictures which may make the disease worse, was described to-day to the American Medical Association here.

Use of thorium dioxide, a chemical injected into the body which makes possible the taking of X-ray pictures used in study of tuberculosis, apparently aids the spread of at least one type of the disease, said Dr. George A. Bennett of the medical school of Georgetown University. His tests so far have been made only on guinea pigs, but may apply to human beings.

Tuberculosis germs of the type known as R-1 infect only isolated spots in the lungs of experimental animals, according to Dr. Bennett and do not spread. But when thorium dioxide is injected for making X-ray pictures the disease becomes more active and spreads throughout the animals' lungs.

An offer of $150 from E. A. Langley for two lots on Carden Street, and one on Haig Street, was accepted by the Esquimalt Council esterday evening.

George Durrant, aged sixteen, suffered cuts on his right hand following an explosion of a dynamite percussion cap in front of his home at 942 Caledonia Avenue yesterday evening. The lad, with a number of other boys, was playing with the caps and exploding them by throwing rocks on them. He was given first aid at the police station.

The lecture by Norman Sommerville, K.C., on "The Meaning of the Red Cross" to be given in the Empress Hotel on Thursday night will be under the patronage of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor. The musical programme, under the direction of Mrs. C. C. Warn, will include numbers by Elsa Barclay, Sidney Chiverall and the Warncliffe trio.

Shaving Needs Should Be Kept Orderly In Medicine Chest

Surgical Powder Is Better Than Styptic For Healing Cuts

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Among the materials to be included in the family medicine chest are the cosmetics.

Most modern women prefer to keep their cosmetics in their own boudoirs, but the man of the house is very likely to put his into the family medicine cabinet. They should include, in most instances, a razor, which should be kept in its box and not permitted to lie around loosely; also some shaving soap or cream, some face lotion which may be either witchhazel or a special lotion which he prefers.

It is not advisable to use a styptic in the form of a stick of alum to stop slight bleeding points after shaving. Much better are any of the astringent surgical powders, of which a small amount may be taken from the box on each occasion and applied directly to the bleeding point.

Finally, any good talcum powder may be used after shaving and after bathing, according to the individual preferences of the users.

All such materials should be kept in orderly position and not scattered around the chest helterskelter, as many men are inclined to do.

It is taken for granted that every modern household has a good clinical thermometer, a hot water bottle and an ice bag. These are three exceedingly useful devices in any home and when they are available in an emergency the comfort they give is tremendous.

In addition to the materials used for first aid, most families will have bedpans for use in cases of illness, glass drinking tubes, syringes for giving enemas, atomizers and sometimes special devices for creating steam to be medicated with small amounts of tincture of benzoin for relief in various forms of hoarseness or other conditions affecting the larynx and the lungs.

There are certain "don'ts" which may well be repeated in closing this series on the contents of the family medicine chest.

Don't save poisonous preparations of any kind in your medicine chest.

They are:

Do not save poisonous preparations of any kind, including particularly bichloride of mercury, pills containing strychnine, or solutions containing wood alcohol.

Do not keep samples of patent medicines of unknown composition recommended beyond their actual virtues.

Never permit any preparation of opium or morphine in the family medicine chest.

Never save any prepared prescription after the specific use for which it was ordered by the physician has disappeared.

HALL CROWDED BY GROUPERS

Oxford Group Movement Flourishing in Atmosphere Of Good-fellowship

Allan Chambers Conducts Organization Here; Groups To Meet During Summer

Demonstrating the firm hold the Oxford Group Movement has secured in Victoria, the gymnasium of St. Margaret's School yesterday evening was crowded by groupers carrying on the work recently introduced here by the touring British team.

There were fully 400 people at the group meeting, which was in charge of Allan Chambers of Vancouver, who has been here for some time organizing the groups. The meeting, it was explained by Mr. Chambers, was called to give the various groups an opportunity to report progress. The groups, he added, would continue in the city throughout the summer months.

STRONG MOVEMENT

The movement is going apace strongly here, with an atmosphere of cheery good-fellowship as the keynote of the gatherings. The outstanding feature of yesterday evening's meeting was the happy spirit prevailing among the members of all ages.

Several speakers, during the hour of the general meeting, told of the great benefits secured from the movement. Later the gathering was divided into groups, the older men meeting in one group, the younger men in another, the younger women in a separate group and the elder women in another. The four different groups assembled in separate classrooms, each group being in charge of a selected leader.

Many of those attending "witnessed" to changed lives.

Dean Quainton conducted the service, assisted by Rev. Robert Connell. The Cathedral boys' choir led in the singing of the two hymns "Cast Thy Care Upon Jesus" and "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say," and for the twenty-third Psalm and "Then Shall the Righteous," from Handel's Elijah.

DELEGATION WAITS HOURS

Unemployed Announce Decision to Stay at City Hall Until They See Mayor

Jobless of Oak Bay Wait on Relief Officer and Minister of Labor

A delegation of fifteen unemployed camped on the City Hall steps this morning to see Mayor Leeming and protest against the recent $2.50 a month cut in relief allowances and against any further reductions

The mayor was busy all morning in a conference on the new Saanich water agreement and at the noon hour had to attend a luncheon meeting where he was the chief speaker.

Unable to gain an audience, the delegation, composed of men and women, married and single, decided to stay at the hall until they saw the mayor on his return from lunch.

The delegation was appointed at a meeting of the United Front yesterday evening.

To draw added attention to what one of their number described as "starvation conditions" among the unemployed of Oak Bay, about a dozen of the municipality's jobless gathered outside the Municipal Hall this morning to discuss the outlook and send a delegation to see J. Vaughan Roberts, relief officer. Mr. Roberts said the meeting took the nature of a "friendly chat" and that he had nothing to say for publication, since the men demanded nothing and were promised nothing.

Yesterday a deputation from Oak Bay waited on Hon. Middleton Dennies, Minister of Labor.

LOWER WATER RATE SOUGHT

Saanich Proposes 1 Cent Less Than Charge Made on Oak Bay

Representatives of City and Municipality Meet to Discuss New Agreement

Saanich seeks water from the city at half a cent per 1,000 gallons cheaper than it has paid for the last three years, it was learned this morning following a conference of city and Saanich representatives to discuss a new water agreement.

"We think we deserve a rate at least one cent lower than that given Oak Bay," Reeve William Crouch said after the meeting. This was due, he explained, to the difference in the service given the municipalities, Saanich taking its water direct from mains at Wilkinson Road, while a larger amount of additional piping is needed to serve Oak Bay.

Oak Bay pays 7.5 cents a 1,000 gallons. Saanich has been paying seven cents.

While it has not been officially stated, the city is understood to be seeking a small advance in the payment from Saanich.

ROUND TABLE TALK

The conference this morning was devoted to a round table talk of the whole question, and argument and decision left over for a further meeting. Mayor Leeming, Aldermen P. R. Brown, Walter Luney and J. D. Hunter attended for Victoria, with D. A. Macdonald, city comptroller; H. S. Pringle, city solicitor, and G. M. Irwin, acting water commissioner. Reeve Crouch headed the Saanich delegation, with Councillors Hoare and Brogan, and Clerk R. R. F. Sewell.

Figures on costs and carrying charges obtained by the city officials were placed before the meeting, and Saanich representatives were provided with full information in this line for their consideration. The officials of both municipalities were instructed to talk over the different angles before the next conference.

The new agreement is to replace a three-year pact which expired on March 31, under which Saanich paid a flat rate of seven cents a 1,000 gallons. For three years prior to 1930, Saanich paid on a basis of 7.5 cents for the first 175,000,000 gallons, seven cents up to 240,000,000 gallons and five cents in excess of that amount.

The city's agreement with Oak Bay was entered into in 1930, and is on a basis of 7.5 cents. Previous to that year Oak Bay paid a rate of 7.8 cents which was fixed by the Provincial Water Board after arbitration when the two sides could not agree.

Mrs. Sinclair was formerly Miss Helen Minson before her marriage, which took place recently at Phoenix. While in Vancouver they were the guests of C. V. Wakeley, an old friend of Mr. Sinclair.

To-night they will take passage by the Ss. H. F. Alexander for Los Angeles, en route to their Arizona home.

FINANCES ARE UNDER REVIEW

Mayor Leeming Outlines City's Position at Kiwanis Luncheon

An extensive review of the city's financial position and the 1933 budget, coupled with a warning that unless the government provides some new method of taxation the city is doomed to a financial washout, was presented by Mayor David Leeming to the Kiwanis Club members at luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-day.

The mayor dealt at length with assessments, the budget and unemployment relief matters.

He compared assessment figures of 1914 with those of 1933 showing a reduction of more than 50 per cent in this period, and a reduction in land values and increase in improvement values. The reduction in land values, from $89,000,000 to $24,700,000 he did not think was sufficient. In 1914, a tax of twenty mills on land only had raised $1,786,000, and in 1933 a levy of forty-one mills on 100 per cent of land values and on 60 per cent of improvements had produced $1,748,000.

He dealt fully with the civic situation in regard to borrowings and accumulated debt, stressing the fact that the $180,000 taken from the sinking fund had left the fund intact as it had been borrowed from the surplus.

In compiling this year's budget the council had been faced with enormous increases in cost and reductions in revenue, the mayor said, but by reducing expenses $342,000 it had been possible to offset this increase somewhat. He paid tribute to the work of the school board in lowering its budget by $76,000.

He did not wish the clubmen to be disillusioned by rumors that relief was decreasing and gave figures illustrating that the decrease from March to May of this year had not been as great as from March to May in 1932.

A vote of thanks was moved by J. B. Clearihue, president.

Walter Johnson Returns to Major League Baseball Wars

Fans Finish Roger Peckinpaugh; Gabby Street on Spot

D.F.A. and Sam Davidson Have Another Squabble to Settle

WALTER JOHNSON, the "Big Train" of major league baseball, has returned to the fold as manager of the Cleveland Indians, succeeding Roger Peckinpaugh, who was at the helm for five years. Johnson has been out of baseball since he was retired as boss of the Washington Senators. Peckinpaugh's finish came as the result of his inability to satisfy the Cleveland fans. They had threatened to ride him off the job several weeks before the final blow came. It is a well established fact that Peck's work was satisfactory to the club president, Alva Bradley. However, the Cleveland fans are determined to have a winning team.

The shadow of retirement formed suddenly over Peckinpaugh. More than one of the directors were opposed to his retention at the end of the 1932 campaign, and it was widely hinted that his run-in with Pitcher Wesley Ferrell, late last summer, might lead to his dismissal. Bradley was a staunch supporter of Peck, and finally prevailed on the hostile directors to give him another contract. But there was a distinct impression about the whole deal that he would be "on trial" this season. That the trial came to a climax so quickly is the only surprising feature of developments.

A recent eastern invasion of the Indians is believed to have caused Peck's dismissal more than anything else. It was typical of almost every spring foray the tribe has made since Peck took charge. They left Cleveland May 15, in the first place, with seventeen victories and nine defeats. Then they lost three straight to the Philadelphia Athletics, two of three to Boston and two to the New York Yankees. That was .125 baseball, compared with the .654 pace the club had set in its game on western soil.

These are serious days for all big league managers. Take the case of Gabby Street of the St. Louis Cardinals: Sam Breadon, who votes more than 50 per cent of the stock in the Cards, has put it up to Street to win the National League pennant. In other words Street has put on the spot. Gabby expects to lift the flag and make it three championships in the four seasons he has directed the Red Birds. Just what will happen to him if he doesn't remains to be seen. The Cardinals have been sailing right along at a reliable gait and are pressing the New York Giants for first place. The team batting has not yet reached full bloom and when this comes, the pitching should be there to dovetail right in with the sluggers.

These days are proving stormy ones for the Dominion of Canada Football Association. Sam Davidson, paid secretary of the D.F.A., and often referred to as the "man behind the gun," is more than having his work cut out settling troubles all over the Dominion. A Winnipeg dispatch yesterday tells of a sweeping investigation involving all the soccer clubs in Winnipeg, following reports that prominent players on Winnipeg teams have been playing professional football under the cloak of amateurism.

After having settled the squabble in British Columbia, between the British Columbia Football Association and the Pacific Coast League, which necessitated his making a trip to the coast, Mr. Davidson now has more trouble in his own backyard. While on the coast, Mr. Davidson attended a meeting in Victoria and during the discussion of affairs in this province he, at various times, cited how such matters were so capably handled in his home province, Manitoba. Apparently things have been going on right under his nose that he did not know anything about. Soccer affairs in Canada ran smoothly for many years, except for the outbreak by the National League in the east, but in the last year or so the D.F.A. and Mr. Davidson have been on the jump to keep everybody satisfied and everything above board.

Pigeon Racing

The Victoria and District Racing Pigeon Club held a race over the week-end from Eugene, Oregon, a distance of 303 miles. Twelve lofts competed, with a total of sixty-eight birds. The first four birds to reach Victoria headed the field by over an hour.

R. Dickinson won all pools and a special prize donated by T. Crossman.

J. Bowcott won a special prize donated by the Fernwood Meat Market.

The first bird, Red Shadow, owned by R. Dickinson, covered the distance in 8 hours 17 minutes 30 seconds. Only ten lofts reported.

Times were as follows:

	H.	M.	S.
1. R. Dickinson's Red Shadow	8	17	30
2. J. Bowcott's Dot B.	8	18	38
3. J. B. Stewart's Silver Doctor	8	20	26

The next race will be held this week-end from Medford, Oregon, a distance of 420 miles.

Leading Marksmen Of Province Will Compete In Event

Number of New Events Are Announced; Several Changes Made in Programme

HISTORIC RIFLE TO BE AT STAKE

Conditions For Lieutenant-Governor's Match, Feature Event, Are Altered

Leading marksmen of the province will gather at Heals Range July 11 to 15 for the annual meeting of the British Columbia Rifle Association. Plans for the competition and the programme were announced today by H. Collings, secretary of the B.C.R.A. The official programme is now in the hands of the printers and will be available for intending competitors within a few days. Secretary Collings stated that well over 100 crack shots will be here from all parts of British Columbia and one of the most successful meets in the long history of the B.C.R.A. is expected.

Opening on Tuesday morning, July 11, the meet will continue throughout the five days with the wind-up on Saturday afternoon when the prizes are presented to the winners. It is expected that Lieutenant-Governor Fordham Johnson will make the presentations. Entries for the meet will close a few days before the opening.

CHANGE CONDITIONS

A number of changes have been made this year in the various competitions while several new events have been added to the programme, making it particularly enticing for the marksmen and giving them plenty of opportunity to display their skill.

The Westminster match to be held on Tuesday morning will be seven shots at 200 yards and seven shots at 500. The McDonald Brier competition will be the same as last year.

In place of the Dawson Match, B.C.R.A. officials have substituted a competition for a handsome trophy donated by General J. Duff-Stewart of Vancouver. This event will be ten shots at 300 and 600-yard butts. The Victoria Corporation match has been changed to ten shots at the 800-yard range.

HISTORIC RIFLE DONATED

This year the marksmen will also compete for one of the most honored trophies in the history of rifle shooting in British Columbia. In 1874 a rifle was presented by the Lord Mayor of London and won by Ensign Adolphus Peele of New Westminster. That rifle has been presented back to the B.C.R.A. by the Peele family and will be offered as a challenge trophy for the first time this year. The winner will be the marksman who scores the highest aggregate in the Victoria, New Westminster and Vancouver matches. He will hold the trophy for one year.

A change has been made in the rules governing the Lieutenant-Governor's match, blue ribbon event of the meet. This year the first stage will be shot from the 200, 500 and 600-yard ranges. The thirty-six highest scorers will qualify for the second stage to be fired from the 300, 600 and 900-yard ranges. This will include ten shots at the 300 and 600 and fifteen at the 900. However, the scores made in the first stage will not be added to those made in the second to determine the winner, as has been the procedure in former years. In other words the rifleman making the highest score in the second stage will win.

The P.P.C.L.I. Trophy event, the rapid fire match at 300 yards and snap shooting match at 300 yards, a new competition, will be shot under service conditions, with open sights and no slings.

The Lieutenant-Governor's match last year was won by Sergt. J. H. Regan, Canadian Scottish, who was also the winner of the all-comers aggregate. Regan will compete this year with the hopes of repeating his victories.

Braves Bunt Burlesque Ball

Grays and Indians Will Serve Up Knockout Baseball at Beacon Hill Park To-morrow Night; Champion Hindu Strong Man and Egg-eater, Cowboy and Painted Chief Will Perform As Side Shows

Burlesque baseball will be featured at Beacon Hill Park at 6.15 o'clock to-morrow evening, when the Gray Line team of hard-ball sluggers will again try conclusions with the Indians from the Esquimalt reservation.

On the last occasion these teams met some 3,000 people turned out at the park to see the fun, and it was such a success that a return match was arranged.

There will be a lot of buffoonery to ease the tension in the pinches, but the ball played will be of the stellar variety.

NOVEL FEATURES

As a preliminary Bola Singh, the Hindu strong man and champion egg-easter, will do his stuff. After appeasing his appetite by swallowing three dozen raw eggs, Bola will show how easy it is to lift 700 pounds or thereabouts.

The kids attending the game will have a great time, for the Gray Line has arranged to distribute 300 all-day suckers among them while the batteries are warming up for the fray.

"Winnipeg" Chilton, billed as the greatest showman since Barnum, will attend as manager of the Grays and will give weight to any argument that may develop on the sidelines.

The Indians say they will bring along a real chief in war paint, mounted on a steed that will be in keeping with the character of the event. Not to be outdone in this respect the Grays will introduce a cowboy, chapped, belted and spurred, carvorting on a tough mustang.

BAND TO PLAY

The Boys' Band of forty-three pieces, as usual, will play selections. Allie Mc. Gregor will call the balls and strikes behind the plate, and "Joker" George Patton will act as base umpire.

Rebel Mowat will be on the mound for the Grays, with Bobby Ross at the receiving end, while Percy Ross will do the hurling for the Indians with A. Potts doing the catching.

The line-ups follow:

Indians—H. Kamiss, lf; G. Cooper, 1b; P. Ross, p; F. Albany, cf; W. Crosley, 2b; T. Sorenson, rf; D. Albany, 3b; A. Potts, c; Macana, ss.

Gray Line—Bobby Ross, c; P. Fitzsimmons, 1b; Macedo, ss; B. Cox, 2b; J. Robertson, 3b; W. Cox, cf; A. Veitch, lf; Joe Smith, rf; Rebel Mowat, p.

Former Heavyweight Champion Takes Two Out of Three Falls; Other Results

Sacramento, Calif., June 13.—Strangler" Lewis, 230, Kansas City, threw Dan Koloff, 205, San Francisco, two falls out of three to win a main event wrestling match here yesterday evening. In a preliminary, Jack Ganson, 208, Canada, received two broken ribs when thrown by Indian Jules Strangbow, 235, Lodi, Calif, and was taken to a local hospital.

St. Paul, June 13.—Jim London, claimant of the world heavyweight wrestling championship, defeated Ray Richards, former University of Nebraska football star, in twenty-nine minutes of a scheduled sixty-minute match yesterday evening.

Portland, Ore., June 13.—Temura Higami, Japan, defeated Bulldog Jackson, Klamath Falls, Ore., two falls out of three in the main event of yesterday evening's wrestling matches here.

Tacoma, Wash., June 13.—Gus Sonnenberg, former heavyweight wrestling champion of the world, defeated Abe Kaplan, New York, with the best two out of three falls here yesterday evening. Sonnenberg used his flying tackles effectively to capture the two falls.

JIM BROWNING EXTENDED TO DEFEAT JOE SAVOLDI

Recognized Heavyweight Wrestling Champion in New York State Finds Former Notre Dame Football Star Tough Opponent in Two-hour Match; Decision Is Booed

New York, June 13.—It took Jim Browning, champion of one wing of the wrestling world, almost two full hours last night to gain a decision over Joe Savoldi, title pretender from Notre Dame, in a rain-soaked ring in the American League ball park.

The match went one hour fifty-eight minutes, five seconds, before the curfew law brought relief to 6,000 drenched spectators and the decision to Browning.

Savoldi, who threw Jim Londos suddenly and unexpectedly a couple of months ago and earned a contract from a Toronto syndicate at a reported $100,000 figure, had much the better of the early going.

He rolled Browning, recognized as titleholder in New York State, around the sodden ring in a series of armlocks, gave him the old flying tackle that worked so well for a couple of Knute Rockne's last Notre Dame elevens, and wound up by kicking the Missouri farm boy in the face.

Browning then took charge of the proceedings and punished Savoldi with a variety of scissor holds, including his own invention, the "airplane scissors" in which he lifted Joe with his legs and tossed him around the ring. The decision was booed by the crowd who believed it should have been a draw.

JOHNNY KING TAKES TITLE

Manchester Boy Whips Bobby Leitham to Win British Empire Bantam Crown

Canadian Puts Up Great Scrap in Fifteen-round Engagement in London

London, June 13.—Johnny King, Manchester, yesterday evening won the British Empire bantamweight title and the Lonsdale belt, defeating Bobby Leitham, Verdun, Que., champion of Canada, by a close fifteen-round decision at Olympia.

King, British champion, found the Canadian a tough opponent, able to use his right hand well. In the first found Bobby had the Englishman guessing. Subsequently, however, King began to master the Canadian's attack, although Leitham was still dangerous as he kept flinging powerful rights to the body.

The crowd jumped to its feet in the fifth as Leitham ran straight into a right to the chin and went down for a count of two. He scrambled to his feet and clouted King with a right-hand swing to the head. At this point it appeared anybody's fight. Although he had taken considerable punishment Bobby was fighting strongly.

LEFT EFFECTIVE

King did most damage with a straight left, but Leitham showed himself willing to swap punches, and occasionally got in stinging blows to his adversary's face.

Both men were on their toes throughout the fight, and despite damage to his left eye, the Canadian continued to give Johnny a hard battle.

Once in the tenth round Leitham shook the Briton with a hard right to the head. Considerable clinching in the closing stages of the bout brought jeers from the crowd, which, however, received the decision favorably.

Leitham weighed 117 and King ten ounces more.

In a preliminary Jackie Brown, British flyweight, recognized in this country as world champion, outpointed the French hope, Valentin Angelmann, in fifteen rounds.

Victoria and Fairfield are at present tied for first place, each club with two wins and one defeat. The Five C's and Hudson's Bay follow, each with one victory and two losses.

The Fairfield club suffered its first defeat of the season last Wednesday.

The postponed Victoria Public School sports will be held on Friday afternoon at the Willows. The events were put off owing to the muddy condition of the race track, but conditions are now excellent for the staging of the events.

MAX SCHMELING TO BE MARRIED

Former Heavyweight Boxing Champion Will Wed Anny Ondra, Film Star

New York, June 13. — Blushing furiously, Max Schmeling, former heavyweight boxing champion, who was knocked out by Max Baer last Thursday night, called the sports writers around him yesterday to tell them he was sailing for Germany to-morrow night to marry Anny Ondra, fair-haired film star of his homeland.

For two years he has been denying vigorously that Miss Ondra was his fiancee. But yesterday the quiet young German warrior forced himself not only to confess, but to tell the details of the courtship.

Max Mahon, his trainer, made his predicament worse by insisting that the fighter fell in love with Miss Ondra just seeing her in motion pictures in Germany. They will be married some time in July.

"Perhaps I will bring her here with me in September when I come back to fight again," Max said. "Jack Dempsey has promised to give me another chance at Baer either in September here, or in Miami or California in February. I am going to keep on fighting and win back the heavyweight championship."

BOWLING CODE RULED PROPER

Marylebone Cricket Club Upholds Type Used by Harold Larwood in Test Matches

Continuance of "Barracking" Might Result in Ending Tests With Australia

London, June 13.—The Marylebone Cricket Club, governing body of the game, yesterday evening refuted charges of the Australian Cricket Board of Control that English bowling in last winter's test matches had been unfair, and warned the Antipodeans that continuance of "barracking" might result in cessation of test matches between the two countries.

In a 700-word cabled message, the M.C.C. declared "body line" bowling of the type practiced by Harold Larwood in the last tests was fair, and described the term "body line" as incorrect.

Such a term, the message said, implied a direct attack by the bowler on the batsman, and any such implication applied to English bowling in Australia was improper and incorrect. Such action by any bowler, it added, would be condemned immediately.

The practice of bowling on the leg stump with the field placed on the leg side, the M.C.C. said, was legitimate and had been in force for many years.

The message described as impracticable a new rule recommended by the Australian Board of Control by which bowlers of what it describes as "body line" balls would be penalized and said it would place an impossible task on the shoulders of umpires.

In the men's monthly medal competition held at the Colwood Golf Club Sandy Marling was the winner with a net score of 70. Alex. Straith placed second, four strokes behind the winner.

London, June 13.—A near record field of 287 and a record foreign entry of thirty-four, including fourteen leading United States amateurs and professionals yesterday was announced for the British open golf chmpionship at St. Andrews, Scotland, July 3 to 7.

Gene Sarazen, defending champion who won the British crown at Sandwich last year with the record total of 283, heads the United States delegation with other members of the Ryder Cup team captained by Walter Hagen, four times British champion.

The other members of the cup team are Ed Dudley, Craig Wood, Densmore Shute, Paul Runyan, Horton Smith, Olin Dutra and Leo Diegel, while the free-lance American entrants are John Farrell, United States open champion in 1928; Joe Kirkwood, Australian-born American professional; George T. Dunlap, former American intercollegiate titleholder; Joseph Exar, Waco, Texas, and Joshua C. Gane, Brookline, Mass.

THREE CANADIANS

The United States amateur champion, C. Ross Somerville, heads a Canadian delegation of three, including his London, Ontario, clubmate, Jack Nash, and Don Anderson, St. Thomas.

France has nominated ten, Spain six, and Argentina, new Zealand, Denmark, Egypt and the far corners of the British Empire sent the others. J. Cruickshank, Buenos Aires, is the only South American aspirant for the title.

The British have not won their own title since 1923, when Arthur Havers led the field at Troon. Since then Hagen and Bobby Jones each has won three times and Jim Barnes, Tommy Armour and Sarazen once each.

Worthington's Hit Clears Bases and Wins For Slingers

Timely Three-base Crash Brings His Team 4 to 3 Victory in Senior Baseball

DROPS CAMERONS FROM TOP PLACE

Leo Holden Is Winning Pitcher; Holness and McKinney Work For Camerons

Catcher Ainsley Worthing's line drive to left centre field for three bases in the fourth inning, with the sacks loaded, was the leading factor in Slingers' 4 to 3 victory over Camerons in the Senior Amateur Baseball League game at the Athletic Park yesterday evening. The teams put on nine innings of interesting baseball before a good crowd. The loss dropped Camerons out of their first-place tie, leaving the Sons of Canada in undisputed possession of the top berth. The Tillicums are in third position and Slingers last.

It was Slingers' second straight victory over Camerons and as in the first win Leo Holden was again the pitcher to put over the success. Holden allowed nine hits, struck out six and walked three. He had considerable trouble controlling the ball, with the result that three wild pitches were chalked up against him. And every one came at a crucial time. Bill Holness, who started for Slingers, lasted only three and a third innings, when he was yanked in favor of Goldie McKinney. Holness was nicked for four runs and six hits, includes a triple and a pair of doubles. He struck out four and walked one. McKinney pitched good ball, allowing one hit, while he fanned two.

Camerons were forced to shuffle their players around, owing to the absence of "Slim" Belcher, regular first sacker. He was replaced by Steve Dunc, who turned in a first-class exhibition, and Dunc's position in left field was filled by Dan Lidstone. Marley made his debut with Slingers in right field and shaped up first class.

ONE-RUN LEAD

The second inning saw Camerons get away to a one-run lead, Bridgewood singled to left field and advanced to second on the first of Holden's wild heaves. An error by Restall gave McKenzie a life and sent Bridgewood to third. McKenzie stole second. Nex's Texas Leaguer behind second was good for two bases, Bridgewood scoring, and McKenzie bringing up at third. Lidstone struck out and Dunc popped to Constable. Bill Holness retired the side by striking out with the count three and two. Camerons filled the bases with two away in the fourth, but Love struck out to end the attempted rally.

Slingers did all their scoring damage in a big fourth inning. Cummins started with a two-base hit to centre field that Outfielder Essler made a great effort on. Marley was safe when Love juggled his daisy-cutter, Cummins reaching third. Marley pilfered second. Constable walked to load the bags. Worthington stepped to the plate with a brand new bat, and his lusty clout to centre field sent three runners across the plate and took him to third. Barnswell grounded to Holness. Holden's sharp single to centre scored Worthington and marked Holness's exit to the dug-out. Bennison forced Williams, who ran for Holden, at second, McKenzie to Love. Bennison reached second on a passed ball, but died there when Restall grounded to Nex.

In the fifth Camerons made a great effort to get even again, but fell one run short. Smith and Essler greeted Holden with successive singles. Both runners advanced on another wild pitch by Holden. Bridgewood beat out a slow roller to Constable, and the bases were all occupied with nobody out. McKenzie forced Smith at the plate Barnswell to Worthington. It was a fast bit of play by the second baseman. Restall gathered in Nex's foul fly for the second away. Lidstone's short fly behind second was good for a single scoring Essler and Bridgewood. Dunc struck out.

SNAPPY DOUBLE PLAY

During the sixth, seventh and eighth innings the teams played airtight and not a runner reached third. C erons made their final bid in the n but a smart double play cut their short. Smith reached first wher swung at a wild pitch on his strike, the ball getting away Worthington. Essler forced Smit second, Barnswell to Bennison. Bri wood walked. McKenzie then hit the double killing, Bennison to Be well to Restall.

BOBBY PEARCE HEAVY FAVORITE TO CAPTURE PRO SCULLING TITLE

Monarch of Amateur Scullers Will Join Professional Ranks for Match Race Against Champion Ted Phelps and Major Goodsell at Canadian National Exhibition; May Take Up Coaching

By ARTHUR STOTT
(Victoria Times Traveling Cor.)

Hamilton, June 13.—The mythi- crown which adorns the head Bobby Pearce, monarch of ilers, is due to receive another el, if the opinion of Canada's ing fraternity is correct. And the time the Canadian National ibition has been concluded, giant Hamiltonian-Australian have completed his full sweep victories in the rowing world capturing the open professional e.

h every big laurel the game has fer him in his hand as far as eur competition is concerned, e will cross the line into pro- nalism in the much debated yed race, scheduled for the ex- on. He is confident the contest be staged and is willing to meet Phelps, present holder of the title, Major Goodsell, who has twice enged Phelps and once held the rs himself.

e guarantee Phelps is seeking for appearance against Pearce in the ar struggle is widely regarded as cknowledgement by the English- he will no longer be professional pion after his race with the dianized Australian.

RCE IN TRAINING

d Bobby, idol of two Olympiads one British Empire meet, is train- faithfully for the contest.

onzed and healthy, tipping the a at slightly over 200 pounds, e goes down to the Leander Boat , his Hamilton training ground, day to keep himself in the best ape for the internationally bally- d race. He plans to take off a more weight and improve his e slightly before he faces the er. He has mapped out his train- grind so he will be at top form the big event is staged. His into the moneyed ranks is ex- ed to be as successful as his ling career among the simon s.

king up rowing seven years ago, a husky boy of nineteen, Pearce t through to five consecutive vic- s in his first five starts in his e in Australia. Heavy handicaps ked him later, but he has never an open event. His powerful arms legs and rippling back muscles e him to New South Wales cham- ships early in his career and, when Olympics of 1928 were staged in terdam, the giant sculler from "down under" showed the same prowess against the world's best amateurs as he swept to win the coveted sculling prize. At the British Empire Games at Hamilton he proved himself far superior to other men in the British Commonwealth, and outrowed other oarsmen of international repute in a special race in which he had to disentangle his craft from two others and come from behind to pick up Beresford, famous Englishman, before he won.

WON DIAMOND SCULLS

Improving the shining hours, Bobby went over to the Thames in 1931 to try for the highest sculling honors in the world, next to the Olympic title. In England he met and defeated a brilliant field to take the Diamond Sculls; the trophy for which still stands among his most cherished possessions.

In Canada during the remainder of the season, he repeatedly demonstrated his superiority over other oarsmen of international importance before returning to his old and trusted coach, his father, "Dad" Pearce, to work out for the Olympic Games. Under the watchful eye of "Dad," Bobby again went into the event the favorite, and upheld his honors to become one of the charmed circle of athletes to defend their laurels in successive meets.

Now a giant of twenty-seven, successfully established in business and married to a charming young wife from his Antipodean home, he is concentrating his energies for the exhibition race, for which final arrangements are now being made in England.

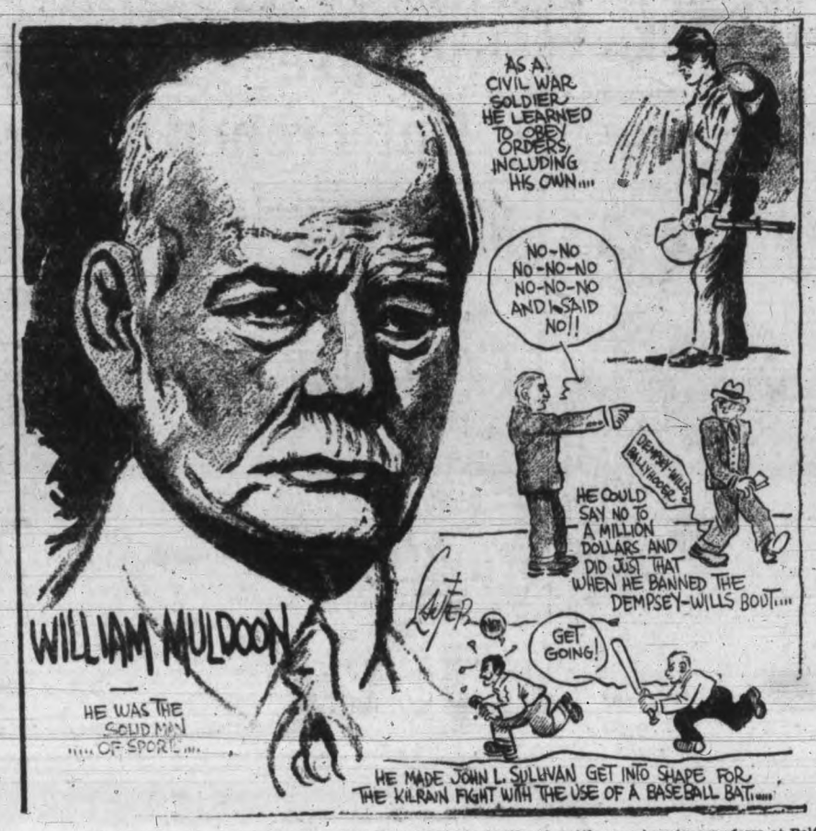
MAY BECOME COACH

Asked regarding his plans after crossing over from the ranks of the simon pures, Bobby stated he would leave that for the future to decide. He may take up coaching, and he will always be ready to meet challengers in match races.

But wrestling will not be one of the games to which he will turn. Like Victoria's famous red-headed Goliath, Torchy Peden, Pearce has been approached by promoters who have tried to induce him to take up the mat game. But so far their overtures have passed unanswered.

At the top of the game, Pearce retains the charming boyish frankness which has made him a favorite with the athletic circles of three continents. His eyes still crinkle and his face splits in a grin over tales of horse play at the various meets in which he has starred. The big hands that have pulled sculls successfully against the greatest oarsmen of the world, have not turned callous to a friend.

MEMORIES OF MULDOON..... By Laufer



Soldier, policeman, wrestler, actor, builder of champions . . . the life of the late William Muldoon teemed with the momentous. . . . He took the hulking wreck that was John L. Sullivan forty-four years ago . . . mastered the man . . . made him beat down Jake Kilrain in seventy-five rounds. . . . One of my last memories of him is linked with Gene Tunney . . . he was a close friend of Tunney's . . . and helped him in many ways to reach the pinnacle of perfection that Tunney attained the first time he met Dempsey . . . but, friend or no, Muldoon insisted that Gene had the benefit of a long count in that last desperate battle at Chicago. . . . They came to call him the Solid Man of Sport . . . because there was no swerving of him after he had pronounced an edict as a member of the New York Boxing Commission . . . the Dempsey-Wills fight might have drawn a million in Manhattan . . . but what was a million to Muldoon? . . . he could say no to a million, too . . . His parents came from Ireland . . . Portumna, close to Galway, on the banks of the River Shannon . . . they first went to Canada, Muldoon's father as a surveyor for the British government . . . finally to settle on a twenty-acre farm at Belfast, N.Y. . . . where William Muldoon was born, May 25, 1845. . . . And from where a youth of seventeen was to march with New York's Sixth Regiment . . . then to return from Appomattox . . . still a boy in years . . . but with a man's stature . . . a man who knew how to obey orders . . . including his own. . . . In later years reminiscent Muldoon would say, "The business of trying to kill one's fellow man is not a pleasant memory" . . . and he went into the business of building men, rather than destroying them.

Rowe and Buchanan Star In Victory Of University School

Inter-school Senior Track and Field Championship Decided by Wide Margin

NEW BROAD JUMP RECORD BY ROWE

Same Athlete Also Wins 100-Yard Dash; Kitchin Runs Fine Race in Half Mile

Led by Rowe, who hung up firsts in the 100-yard dash and the broad jump, and who was also a big factor in his relay team's victory, University School had little difficulty in securing the inter-High School senior track and field championship at the Mount Tolmie grounds yesterday afternoon. Oak Bay High School was second and Saanich High School third. Victoria High athletes, defending champions, were prevented from competing through pressure of examinations. The final point score was: University School 33, Oak Bay 15 and Saanich 13. Buchanan also ran well for the winners, leading the field in the 220 and finished second to Rowe in the 100.

Though the entry list was comparatively small, the field was in fine shape and the weather of the best. One record fell in the nine events, Rowe bettering the mark for broad jumping. Except in the relay, three points were awarded for a first, two for a second and one for a third. These points were doubled for each place in the relay, and since this event was the last on the programme, the tenure of second place rested on it. Before the race Oak Bay had eleven points and Saanich ten, but the suburbanites were unable to out-race the Oak Bay runners in the event.

LEADING ALL THE WAY

Rowe got the University School off to a good start by winning the 100-yard dash with feet to spare. He was off to a good start from the outside position and charged down the track, leading all the way. Buchanan, also of the University School, was second, and Hayward, of Oak Bay, third. The time was 10 3-5 seconds.

Green of the University School then proceeded to cop the shot put with a best throw of thirty-four feet three-quarters of an inch. Young of Saanich High was second, and Poyntz of the University third.

The 120-yard hurdles went to Martin of the University School, with his colleague, Hawkes, second, and Pangman of Oak Bay High third.

It took Kitchin, Saanich High distance runner, to break the string of University School victories. In the half-mile, probably the best race of the day from the spectators' point of view, he trailed the other two runners, Philipsen and Walker, of the University School, until just before the last turn, when he dashed ahead in great style and won comfortably. Philipsen, who set the early pace, was a good second. The time was 2.21 2-5.

OAK BAY WIN

Oak Bay High School broke into the winning column in the next race, the 440, when Shepherd beat McPherson of the University School and Pengray of Saanich High, to the tape in 56 3-5, three seconds behind Lynn Patrick's 1931 record.

A new record for the meet was set in the broad jump by the versatile Rowe of the University School, when he jumped 19 feet 7 inches in his best effort and well over 19 feet in the other two. The previous record was 18 feet 9¾ inches, set by Harmston two years ago. Bryden, Oak Bay, High athlete, who was second, also beat the old record with one jump of 18 feet 10½ inches. Young of Saanich was third.

Two University School boys came one-two in the 220-yard dash, with Buchanan winning in 24 seconds flat and Berry coming next. Hayward, Oak Bay High, was third. This was not a particularly close finish.

A jump by Sparks, Saanich High, of 5 foot 1 was sufficient to cop the high jump, Bryden, Oak Bay High, was second, and Webster, Oak Bay High, third.

With quite the best group of sprinters on their team, it was almost a sure bet that University School would win the 880-yard medley relay from Oak Bay High and Saanich High, and this they did with plenty to spare. Rowe got them off well, but Pangman closed up creditably for Oak Bay on the second lap, but the last two University School men both gained on their opponents. The winning team consisted of Rowe, McPherson, Berry and Buchanan; Oak Bay High, Hayward, Pangman, Webster and Shepherd, was second. Saanich was a poor third.

880 yards—1, Kitchin (S); 2, Philipsen (U.S.); 3, Walker (U.S.); two minutes twenty-one and two-fifth seconds.

100 yards—1, Rowe (U.S.); 2, Buchanan (U.S.); 3, Hayward (OB.); ten and three-fifths seconds.

120 yards, hurdles—1, Martin (U.S.); 2, Hawes (U.S.); 3, Pangman (O.B.); sixteen and four-fifths seconds.

440 yards—1, Shepherd (O.B.); 2, MacPherson (U.S.); 3, Pendray (S); fifty-six and four-fifths seconds.

220 yards—1, Buchanan (U.S.); 2, Berry (U.S.); 3, Hayward (O.B.); twenty-four seconds.

Shot put—1, Green (U.S.); 2, Young (S); 3, Poyntz (U.S.); thirty-four feet five and three-quarter inches.

Broad jump—1, Rowe (U.S.); 2, Bryden (O.B.); 3, Young (S); nineteen feet seven and one-half inches.

High jump—1, Sparks (S); 2, Bryden (O.B.); 3, Webster (O.B.); five feet one inch.

Relay, 880 yards — 1, University School; 2, Oak Bay High School; one minute forty-five and two-fifths seconds.

Birthday To-day

JOHNNY ROWLAND

prominent Victoria athlete who today celebrated his twenty-second birthday. Johnny received congratulations from his many friends in the St. Joseph's Hospital, where he is still confined to bed recovering from a serious head injury suffered last winter while playing rugby. Although laid up for several months Rowland still retains his cheery disposition and takes an active interest in all sports. He played for four years with the Canadian Scottish senior rugby team that toured Japan two seasons ago. He has also played on two Victoria "rep" squads in McKechnie Cup matches.

SOCCER REPLY

To the Sports Editor:—Answering the letter published in Saturday's issue of The Times, I would like to explain the soccer situation in Victoria. If a player signs a form for a club that is connected with the B.C.F.A. he is with organized soccer. If he plays with another club that is an outlaw league it does not mean that he cannot go back to the first-mentioned club. Mr. Clark referred to the case of Scotty Robinson. He first signed with the Jokers juniors and later played for the Victoria West. Then he went back to the juniors. Well, who is to blame for all this? Nobody but the league officials. If a player plays for a dozen teams and gets away with it, is he to blame? I would like someone to answer this question: Should a member of a football board be allowed to referee a junior cup tie? This has happened in Victoria. My idea of soccer here is that juniors ought to be eighteen and under. Why not give the youngsters a chance? That is the reason why our soccer matches are not being patronized.

REDS DEFEAT CUBS AGAIN

Cincinnati Continues to Hold Jinx Over Chicago in National League

Brooklyn, Still in Slump, Beaten by Phillies; Chicago Sox Lose to St. Louis

The "Indian Sign" the Cincinnati Reds hold on the champion Chicago Cubs is one of baseball's minor mysteries. In nine games played so far this season the Reds have won seven of them.

Yesterday, Cincinnati upset Charley Grimm's club 6 to 5.

Meanwhile another National League mystery, the collapse of the Brooklyn Dodgers, went unexplained. Max Carey's men dropped a 7 to 4 decision to the Phillies. The Dodgers haven't won as many as two games in succession since mid-May.

All other National League clubs were idle, while the only American League struggle of the day saw Chicago White Sox drop a 3 to 1 decision to St. Louis Browns and fall into fourth place.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Fractional Losses In Wheat Futures Despite Late Rally

Winnipeg, June 13 (Canadian Press).—Strength at Chicago and some bullish influences from Saskatchewan reports of disease attacking crops, brought a rally in wheat futures prices on the grain exchange to-day. Futures, however, succumbed to last-minute selling and closed fractionally lower.

Quotations were ⅜ to ½ down, July at 64¾, October at 67 and December at 68⅛.

Holding to low levels for the greater part of the session, the market swung upward near the close in sympathy with Chicago and reports of crop disease in Saskatchewan.

Support during the early hours was conspicous by its absence. With prices fractionally below yesterday's close, traders seemed content to stand idly by, waiting for a lead from outside.

A moderate amount of export trade was reported near the close of the session. Estimates were placed at around 300,000 bushels.

Cash wheat and coarse grains continued to trade in a narrow range. Closing quotations were little changed.

WILL DEVELOP TAYLOR CLAIMS

New B.C. Mining Issue Being Sponsored by Colquhoun de Wolf and Co., Vancouver

Organization of the Taylor (Bridge River) Mines Limited to develop the Taylor group of mineral claims adjacent to the Bralorne mine, has been completed, it is announced to-day by Colquhoun de Wolf and Company Limited, Vancouver, who are sponsoring this new issue.

The Taylor group of claims embraces approximately 700 acres. These claims are situated in the heart of the diorite belt, contiguous to the Bralorne mine which is now producing ore, according to engineers who have investigated the property. Veins have been established by open-cuts, strippings and prospect tunnels.

Development work will start immediately. This will comprise the sinking of a 1,000-foot shaft and the driving of four levels of 1,500 feet each. On completion of the present financing the company will have sufficient funds for all development work and for the installation of a 200-ton mill. Every effort will be made to bring the property into production at the earliest possible date.

The board of directors is composed of the following: W. M. MacLachlan, C.A.T.W.B., London; F. H. Clendinning, E. L. Boultbee and R. H. Tupper.

Galsworthy Leaves $303,300 Estate

London.—John Galsworthy's will, made public in London, reveals that he left an estate valued at £88,587 (about $303,300 at current exchange). Probate was granted to his widow, Rudolf Sauter, a nephew, and Sir Walter Halsey, solicitor.

The widow receives £300 and the use for life of their home in Hampstead, the country house in Bury, Sussex, and their effects.

All the novelist's letters, papers, manuscripts, books published and unpublished and copyrights are left in trust to pay the widow as his literary representative an annuity of £1,200 or the whole income, whichever is greater. On her death Mr. Sauter will become his literary executor.

The residue is left to the widow for life, with the remainder to go one-fifth to Mr. Sauter, one-fifth to another nephew, Owen Reynolds; one-fifth to a niece, Veronica Reynolds, and two-fifths in equal shares to Hubert and Muriel Galsworthy, the children of the author's brother, Hubert.

It is also directed that no biography of the novelist shall be published without the consent of the widow or, after her death, of Mr. Sauter.

Mr. Galsworthy's estate compares favorably with those left by other British authors. Arnold Bennett left £40,500, George Moore £73,000, Charles Dickens £80,000, H. Rider Haggard £61,000, Stanley Weyman £100,000, and Charles Garvice £71,000. Victor Hugo left £300,000.

Some two and one-half million game fish fry and fingerlings, about half rainbow trout, will be stocked in Alberta waters this year.

New York, June 13.—Stocks turned somewhat irregular in late trading today, after a morning rally, led by rail shares, had largely erased initial losses of fractions to more than two points.

Union Pacific got up around five points. Other shares up fractions to around a point included Case, Allied Chemical and Loews. Owens Illinois firmed three, American Telephone dropped two, while American Can, U.S. Industrial Alcohol and Eastman Kodak were off about one each.

The turnover approximated 5,800,000 shares

By Victor Eubank, Associated Press Financial Writer

New York, June 13.—Financial markets ebbed and flowed on international currents to-day, but the trend apparently was still upward despite some uncertainties both at home and abroad.

Strength of the rails heartened other categories that were inclined to hesitate: The American dollar showed a tendency to rally in European exchange markets. Gains were a trifle unsettled at one time, and cotton eased, but these, too, displayed resistance.

Canadian stocks and bonds were rather quiet. Shares of Dome Mines were up around a point and Canadian Pacific was fractionally higher. International Nickel and McIntyre moved narrowly.

The Canadian dollar eased ⅛ a cent to 90⅜ cents. A run-in of shorts in Union Pacific, somewhat similar to the one in American Telephone yesterday, sent this carrier up around six points to a new high. Delaware and Hudson jumped about four points.

Reflecting general business improvement, several banks declared regular dividends.

FIRM TONE ON BOND MARKET

Canadian Press

New York, June 13.—Demand for bonds to-day was a bit more discriminating than in some recent sessions, but in general the tone of the market was firm. Low priced rails continued to command attention. Some secondary utilities sold off a point or two, although communications issues improved slightly late. Industrials were steady to firm with fractional gains fairly numerous. U.S. governments carried their early gains to the end of the session with the Liberty loans making the best showing. Some Brazilian and German issues recorded fair advances.

Premier Gains New High For Year When Other Stocks Ease

Vancouver, June 13.—Stocks had an easier tone in the morning session of the Vancouver Stock Exchange to-day and the general trend was to lower levels although Premier was strong, moving up about eighteen points to a new high for the year at $1.58 before slipping to close at $1.47.

The leaders of the market, Pioneer, Cariboo and Bralorne Golds were lower on the day's trading and the volume dried up considerably, demonstrating that traders are not eager to sell at present prices. Pioneer opened at $15.65 and closed at $15.25. Bralorne eased from an opening of $7.50 to close at $7.30 and Cariboo with its strong market position eased only ten cents to close at $3.25. Increased earnings from Cariboo are predicted in the future and the fact that the stock is held in such strong hands holds it firmly in any kind of market.

Wayside was firm during the early trading around 54 and later slipped to 48. Meridian brought 72 and closed at 69 and Gold Belt opened at 94, sold to a high of $1 and closed at 99.

The silver issues were firm with Beaver Silver at 9½ and Silvercrest at 7½ and 8½. Pend Oreille held a lot of interest in the base metals, selling between $1.50 and $1.60 and Noble Five brought 19½.

Price changes were small in the oils with C. and E. at 75 and 79, Home at 90, Mayland at 82 and Royalite at $14 and $14.25.

THIS Company was incorporated to acquire title to the J. M. Taylor group of mineral claims and fractions thereof, free of encumbrances. These claims embrace approximately 700 acres and are situated in the heart of the diorite belt, contiguous to the Bralorne property and to the two claims of that property which are now producing ore. The Taylor claims have similar geological conditions which obtain on the Bralorne mine. Veins on the Taylor property have been established by open-cuts, strippings and prospect tunnels.

The proceeds from this financing will be sufficient to provide funds for all necessary work on the property, including the sinking of a 1,000 foot shaft, driving four levels 1,500 feet each, and the installation of all necessary mining and milling equipment, including a 200-ton mill complete with recovery tanks, etc.

The Company has no liabilities.

The operation of the property will be under the supervision of well-known consulting engineers, while the actual operations will be in charge of a competent mining engineer. The Board of Directors is composed of men of wide business experience. Every effort will be made to bring the property to production as soon as possible.

It should be recognized that holdings in mining properties which have not reached a stage when dividends are being paid must be regarded as speculative, but based on engineers' reports on this property and the success of adjacent mines on the same formation, we believe that these shares offer an attractive speculation.

These shares are offered as, if and when issued and received by us and subject to legal opinion by our solicitors, Messrs. Walsh, Bull, Housser, Tupper and Ray. Applications will be received subject to rejection or allotment in whole or in part, and the right is reserved to close subscription books at any time without notice.

ifty People, Despite Depression, Better Off Than Wasters — Trouser-addicted Women Cause Wonderment—A Typical Problem, Involving One Man and Two Women, Answered

R MISS DIX—You write of the desirability of owning a home. Conder, however, the countless thousands who have scrimped and saved ears in order to make payments on a home and find they have lost due to unemployment. That is f the most disheartening experi- possible. This depression has multitudes of thrift. They say: us eat and drink and be merry, to-morrow we suffer economic " JOHN F. McC.

nswer: One of the most disrous and far-reaching effects of depression has, undoubtedly n to break down the morale so many young people and turn m into wasters and spenders. has killed the ideal of thrift t the wise and prudent have n cultivating in us for so many rs and that was just beginning bear fruit. Nor can one wonder st those who have seen their nes taken from them after the rs of privation they have gone rough in working and scrimping ing to pay for them, and that se who have seen the few-thoud dollars they had scraped together, penny by penny, and that was with their very life blood, swept away by failing banks and fraudulent ck companies, feel that there is no use in trying to save money and t they would have been wiser to have spent it and at least had a d time out of it.

have in mind three friends of mine who a few years ago received a little inheritance. Two of the sisters blew in theirs on a trip to Europe, of good clothes and fine cars. The third prudently invested hers in she considered gilt-edged bonds. Now all of the money is gone, but wo butterfly sisters have the wrecks of their Paris finery and battered while the wise virgin has nothing, not even the memory of a grand ay.

Thousands of others are like these sisters, and it is human for them feel that henceforth they will invest their money in whoopee instead a savings account. But it seems to me that this is poor reasoning, cause if they spend everything they make as they go along, they intably bring upon themselves disaster, whereas if they save judiciously y at least stand a chance of averting penury. Of course, the umbrella provided for our rainy day has not proved much of a protection in present financial storm. But let us hope there will never be another h cyclone.

he laws of human conduct are not changed by an economic upheaval, it is just as true now that the spender will in the end come to want the saver reap prosperity as it was before the panic. Fortunes will still uilt on thrift and industry in the future as they have been in the past. man with a little money saved up will be able to take advantage of rtunities that carry him on to fortune. The man who has laid up thing for his old age will be happy and independent, while the spender never rise in the world and in his old age will know the bitterness of ndence.

A very wise man once said that the ability to save is a test of charter. It takes strength and courage and the ability to deny oneself the ings one wants, but it is fatally easy to spend.

seems to me that the ability to save is not only a test of character, a test of honesty and fairness and justice, because the spenders know enough that in their need they are bound to rob the prudent. Some- has to feed and clothe them when they are out of work or sick or old.

I have known many spenders who, while they were making money, inlged themselves in every luxury and who never saved a cent of their rnings. But their evil day came, as it does to us all, and then they afted off their children on their sisters and brothers or friends, who d denied themselves in order to lay up a little money, and I have ought that these parasites were no better than thieves, for they should ve provided for themselves.

o it becomes a matter of principle and character and self-respect to save of the money you earn instead of spending it all as you go along.

DOROTHY DIX.

EAR MISS DIX—Why are women going in for trousers? As a man, I feel it is my duty to warn them that trousers are a failure even for men. sider: Trousers cost 25 cents for pressing after every rain. They are flop- and heavy-hanging, requiring competent suspenders to attain an accurate ht from the usually straight masculine hips. They are like organ pipes ging over the legs. They are dirty and easily frayed at the cuffs. Only often baggy and unpressed. They are awkward around the knees for ng down. Men have become glum and subdued from having had their it crushed by their trousers. There is no variety of design. Any gather- of men is ordinary-looking. Men's clothes are hot, uncomfortable, exsive, dull-looking, and why women want to copy them is a mystery to me. t we need are livelier, lighter and gayer clothes for men, and the only on we don't have them is because we men are the timid sex. Can you omething to cheer things up?

I AM HOPEFUL.

Answer: I am afraid not, because men are as wedded to the conservave in dress as women are to change. Wild horses could not drag a man to a suit that did not look like every other man's, while a steam tractor uld not compel a woman into a frock that was like another woman's she could help herself.

But, seriously, women always wonder why men who have so much cour- and inventive genius in other matters show so little initiative in designing r own clothes. Why do they, for instance, go on, hot summer after hot mer, suffering the pangs of torment in stuffy, woolen clothes and with after fold of linen bound tightly about their throats? Why do they wear muslins with open necks and short sleeves as women do? Why do continue to content themselves with dull, dark hues instead of gratifyitheir sense of beauty by wearing gay purples and golds and blues and ts as their ancestors did in the good old days?

Men have the advantage of women in many ways, but when it comes clothes women put it all over them. And why any woman wants to eal their pants is beyond me.

EAR MISS DIX—Two years ago I got secretly married. I took a position in another city, where I have met another woman with whom I have en in love. I do not feel now that I could ever be happy with the wo- I married. I do not know what to do. Should I take a martyrlike tude and cleave to my original bargain, or should I throw it over while re is yet time? Should the girl stick to conventions instead of taking t appears her chance for great happiness? Maybe you as a disinterested ty can see farther than either of us.

J.C.J.

Answer: It doesn't take any far-sighted glasses to see what is the ise thing to do in your case. Have your secret marriage annulled if it an be done. Otherwise, get a divorce from the woman you have never penly acknowledged as a wife. That will be best for her, too, as no an who is in love with another woman can make a good husband.

The girl should certainly "stick to the conventions," as you put it, and enter into a free-love union with you.

Horoscope

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 14

Adverse planetary aspects rule strongly to-day, according to astrology. Under this planetary government the mind is likely to be occupied mainly by selfish considerations.

In the early morning the judgment should not be trusted. There may be a tendency to criticize every one in public life.

Domestic peace may be easily disturbed while this configuration prevails. It is well to contemplate one's own faults before discovering the mistakes of other members of the family.

The rule favors older persons, who may enjoy a sense of serene detachment from the troubles of everyday men and women.

Industry is well directed while this planetary government prevails. Work for thousands will be offered through the summer months in places least likely to be watched, the seers foretell.

This is not an auspicious direction of the stars under which to present letters of introduction or recommendation. Employers are likely to be indifferent if not actually hostile.

Women are advised to provide dainty summer wardrobes, for there will be need of cool attire for them. Artistic modes will vie with those of sports design.

Rise in prices of commodities with a corresponding fall in the value of gold will continue, it is prognosticated. It is wise to spend generously now.

Sensational variations in the stock market may be expected as the summer progresses. International trade agreements will affect many industries, the seers prophesy.

Canada is to provide interesting news, the stars presage. Ottawa, Quebec and Halifax are to claim attention.

Certain places on the Gulf of Mexico may suffer from epidemics and blights to crops before the autumn, if the planets are to be believed.

Although local setbacks may be experienced in certain regions, the United States is to have a period of great prosperity astrologers announce.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of progress and general good luck. They should resist temptation to be extravagant.

Children born on this day probably will be imaginative and intellectual. Many subjects of this sign are writers or members of one of the artistic professions.

John McCormack, famous Irish tenor, was born on this day, 1884.

MANY TO SAIL THIS EVENING

Ss. H. F. Alexander Will Take Capacity List From Victoria to California

Brought 527 Passengers and Forty Motor Cars to Seattle Yesterday Morning

More than 400 passengers, including many California residents returning to their homes in the south, after motoring on Vancouver Island, will sail from Victoria this evening at 10 o'clock aboard the Ss. H. F. Alexander of the Pacific Steamship Lines, Capt. C. G. Hansen commanding. It will be her second trip of the season from Victoria to San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Passengers who will embark here this evening include F. J. Thomas, A. J. Salisbury and Donald Armstrong, all of Los Angeles, who have been holidaying on an island off Sidney; A. E. Belfrey, going to San Francisco; Mrs. A. H. Mitchell, Hugh Mitchell and Miss Margaret Stuart of Chicago, going to San Diego for the summer to visit with Sir John K. Barrett, formerly of Victoria; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Scott, returning to San Francisco after a vacation trip to the northwest; Miss Blanche Roy, Miss A. Wilson and Miss G. Y. Rainey.

HERE TWO HOURS

The "H F." sailed from Seattle this afternoon at 4 o'clock, hundreds of passengers lining her deck rails as she pulled out and tore away from the serpentine. She is expected at the Rithet piers at 8 o'clock and two hours later will put to sea.

When the "H. F." arrived in Seattle yesterday morning from the south she had 527 passengers aboard, an almost capacity list. The liner brought forty automobiles from California. Many of these cars will come to Vancouver Island and Victoria before returning south.

Passengers on the northbound voyage of the big liner were Mrs. Robert Dollar, widow of the late Capt. Robert Dollar, accompanied by her niece, Miss Grace Dickson. They are now in Vancouver visiting Mrs. A. Melville Dollar. They will come to Victoria in a few weeks to take ship on their return to San Francisco.

Other travelers were Judge Ray Cheseboro, recently elected city attorney of Los Angeles, with Mrs. Cheseboro; K. W. Edwards, chairman of the Northwest Mutual Fire Association, returning to his home in Seattle after a business trip to San Francisco; Roy W. Crosby, president of the Crosby Marine Corporation, and Mrs. F. T. Lee, wife of an officer of the Western Air Transport Company of Seattle.

San Pedro, June 13.—The Sun Oil Company, recently having filtered all its idle tankers back into the intercoastal run, and having chartered three from elsewhere, now is starting construction of two more at Chester, Pa., which will be faster than any of the present fifteen in the fleet.

RETURNS FROM AFRICAN TRIP

Sent There to Engage Natives For Display at World's Fair in Chicago

Montreal, June 13.—Returning from what is perhaps one of the strangest assignments ever given to a man, Dr. Owen R. O'Neil of Chicago, arrived here last week by the Cunard liner Aurania. Dr. O'Neil has been acting on behalf of the Chicago World Fair authorities, and has just completed a tour of Africa from Abyssinia to the Cape in search of interesting types of various tribesmen throughout the Dark Continent.

He has also collected a large number of exhibits of examples of their primitive art and workmanship. After some months of ceaseless travel in Africa, Dr O'Neil has at last collected as interesting an assortment of natives and their characteristic work as has probably ever been got together for exhibition purposes. The collection of twenty-two natives, together with the exhibition material, will arrive this week by the Cunard liner Alaunia. The natives are traveling in special third class accommodation, and are expected to arrive here in their native dress, when they will probably create something of a furore.

HAD DIFFICULTY

Dr. O'Neil is a medical practitioner, but in view of his previous experience as an explorer in Africa he was engaged by the Chicago World Fair to collect material for the exhibit on Africa. The effort was made somewhat belatedly, Dr. O'Neil explained in an interview on arrival, and he did not have enough time to make his collection of individuals complete. He found that the British Government and the Belgian Government, whose rule extends over many sections of Central Africa, where are located the most interesting tribes, refused permission to allow natives to be used for exhibition purposes. There was no such objection, however, from the French Government, and Dr. O'Neil was able to obtain a large variety of specimens of various types in the Cameroons, Portuguese Africa and other sections in Central Africa.

Dr. O'Neil's original trip was to London, thence to Capetown by steamer, after which he made the Imperial Airways trip direct to Paris, with the customary stops at places like Buluwayo and Nairobi, afterwards proceeding from Paris to Addis Abeba, capital of Abyssinia. Every facility was given him to obtain native works of art before he proceeded south through other regions.

The tallest passenger on the Aurania was certainly B. Greene, who is making a rush trip to Canada. Mr Greene is six feet eight inches high, and claims that he is the shortest member of a big family. The berth in his cabin, made for passengers of more modest dimensions, had to be altered to accommodate his Herculean figure. Mr. Greene comes of a famous family of tall men and claims he can trace his ancestry back two or three centuries. Although born in Brazil, he served in the British diplomatic service in Russia, and is now the owner of a garage in England.

TWO MEN HELD AFTER SHOOTING

Associated Press

Seattle, June 13.—Frank Ray, thirty-four, was fatally shot in the barroom of the Pompom night club here to-day. George Moore, thirty-six, one of the operators of the club, who police said admitted shooting Ray several times with a revolver, and Sidney Brunn, forty-one, a bail bond broker, were arrested.

Moore asserted Ray had attempted to hold up himself, Brunn and another employee as they were counting the night's receipts. Moore told officers he grappled with Ray, disarmed him and shot him with Ray's own revolver.

Police records show Ray was arrested at the place April 11 on a drunkenness charge.

Moore declared Ray had stepped from an ante-room with the weapon in his hands.

R.A.F. SHOW IS PLANNED

Huge New Machine Will Lead Great Air Display at Hendon on June 24

London, June 13.—Led by the largest heavier-than-air flying machine yet built in Great Britain—a biplane boat driven by six motors capable of a maximum power output of 5,580 horsepower—a formation of multi-engined flying boats on parade over Hendon airdrome appears likely to be the "sensation" of the Royal Air Force display on June 24. None who were present will readily forget the squadron which passed majestically overhead in 1930 amid the bellow of mighty engines. But this year the formation will gain its impressiveness from the greater size and power of its component airplanes; in addition to the six-engined giant will be a four-engined biplane boat of a type for which an important order was recently placed by the Air Ministry, and probably a three-engined 2,500 horsepower boat as well as one or more of the standard 1,000 horsepower twin-engined craft which have given magnificent service with the Royal Air Force for some years past.

ABOVE HENDON

The biggest boat will be shown to the public for the first time on the pageant day. In all likelihood she will ascend from the River Medway at Rochester, where she was built in the works of the famous Short Company, meet her attendant vessels on the way to London, and proceed to the R.A.F. experimental marine station at Felixstowe after flying above Hendon.

Designed for long-distance patrol and open-sea reconnaissance, the new Short boat is probably the most seaworthy and efficient flying boat yet constructed anywhere in the world. It transcends in size any of the world's military seaplanes, though Germany has built larger commercial flying boats, some of which have been converted to warlike duties. Fully laden the new English craft weighs 70,000 pounds—thirty-one and one-quarter tons. She is amazingly fast; no figures may yet be revealed, but in trial flights the boat has attained speeds surpassing that of single-seater fighters which only recently became obsolete. Her practical cruising range is immense. She carries a crew of ten men, formidable armament, elaborate navigational equipment and all the paraphernalia of surface ships—anchors, riding lights, fog-horns and so forth.

Except for the covering to the outer sections of the wings the boat is constructed entirely of metal. Her hull is strong enough to withstand the shocks of descent on rough seas; the planing bottom is made of alclad, which is a metal sandwich, having one layer of duralumin between two layers of aluminum, that is light but exceptionally strong and resistant to the corrosive action of sea-water.

CREW'S QUARTERS

In the top of the hull is a hatch through which a spare engine can be taken on board. A derrick which can be erected for slinging the engine on to the boat is carried as part of the equipment of the machine; time and money will be saved because the need for a change of power unit will not necessitate a return to the base.

From tip to tip the biplane wings measure 120 feet. The boat is ninety feet long and thirty feet high. Within the capacious hull are many ingenious mechanical devices, much defensive armament and complete living quarters for the crew, with separate cabins for officers and men. There is even a kitchen, with a stove, ice-chest and roomy store cupboard, where meals may readily be cooked for all of the men on board. The sleeping arrangements are comfortable and airy.

Over 300 swordfishing boats operate off the Cape Breton annually.

For Vancouver the ship has nine first class, nine tourist class and fifteen steerage passengers. For Seattle there are fourteen first class, twenty tourist class and twenty-one steerage. Cargo for Vancouver amounts to 300 tons, including some raw silk.

Outbound to the Orient the Ms. Hikawa Maru, now loading cargo on this Coast, will sail from Vancouver Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, and will pass off Victoria, on her way to sea, in the late afternoon.

TO INVESTIGATE MANITOBA SOCCER

Winnipeg, June 13.—A sweeping investigation, involving all soccer clubs in Winnipeg, will be ordered by John Colvin, president of the Manitoba Football Association, following reports that prominent players on Winnipeg teams have been playing professional football under the cloak of amateurism.

The announcement was made by Colvin when informed that certain players had verbally incriminated themselves and their clubs. A probe will have a far-reaching effect, it is believed, with the possible result of automatically eliminating Winnipeg teams from further competition in the Dominion championship now in progress.

The president of the M.F.A. declined to name a specific date for the probe but said it probably would be within the next few days. Many members of amateur hockey clubs in the city are members of soccer clubs and it is thought repercussions would be felt in the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

TWO DIE IN PLANE CRASH

Airplanes Lock Wings in Air and Crash to Ground at Boise With Fatal Results

Boise, Idaho, June 13.—Flight-Lieut. George B. Hallet and Whitney Close of the 116th Observation Squadron from Felts Field, Spokane, Wash., were killed here to-day. They were crushed in the wreckage of their planes which crashed during manoeuvres with the Idaho National Guard.

The bodies were badly mangled. Observers said the two planes were making an attack dive on a group of national guardsmen in simulation of wartime conditions when the crafts locked wings. They crashed about 200 yards apart. The accident occurred shortly before 1 a.m., Army Headquarters was advised, the planes falling at a point south of the city where the guardsmen conduct part of their field manoeuvers. Neither plane burned but both were described as total wrecks.

Seattle Whalers Out This Season

Seattle, June 13.—It will be "thar she blows" for approximately 100 Seattle whalemen this season, three vessels, the Moran, Aberdeen and Patterson of the American Pacific Whaling Company being allocated to operate, it was announced yesterday by William Schupp, president.

Of the three steam whalers, the Moran sailed yesterday evening and the others are expected to clear to-morrow or Thursday.

The trio will work out of Port Hobron during the summer and early fall and with shoreside crews and nineteen men on each vessel, ninety-five men will be employed.

According to word received by Carl Sunde of Sunde and d'Evers, the season will be more profitable than last, as supplies of whale oil in Norway, chief competitor in the world market, are virtually exhausted.

For this reason a better price is expected this year.

E. Kugler, veteran whaling expert, will be in charge of the operations this summer.

ANNEXATION OF SUBURB ASKED

Nanaimo Council Petitioned By Bay School District To Pass By-law

Special to The Times

Nanaimo, June 13.—The city council received a request from ratepayers of the Bay School District to pass a by-law providing for the annexation of that suburb to Nanaimo. The matter will be dealt with in committee. A delegation from Harewood district ratepayers protested against the high water rate. The delegation pointed out that rural homes around Nanaimo were paying fifty per cent. more than neighboring districts. Ald. Dixon said the city suffered a fifty per cent. loss in supplying outside water consumers. City taxpayers, by the time they had paid rates to meet sinking fund and interest charges, paid more than outside districts, he said.

Medical Officer Drysdale reported chickenpox abating.

The community hall at Qualicum Beach was destroyed by fire Sunday, despite efforts of volunteers to save it. The home and barn of Parker Belyea was also destroyed. The loss is estimated at $6,500. J. Saxby lost a trailer and all his personal effects.

"Daisy" Waugh, St. Andrew's soccer star and former Nanaimo player, will, according to local soccer men, be eligible to play for his old team in the Canadian championship series. With the addition of Waugh, Joly and Decosta to the local line-up, Nanaimo expects to lift the championship and represent Canada at the Chicago Fair.
